Cuba's Top Sergeant Chinese Hitlers She Does Not Care Crime Goes Ahead

— By ARTHUR BRISBANE —

MORE UNITED STATES warships sent to Cuba. Seven are in Cuban waters, or on the way there, and 30 others are nearby, under "stand by" orders, including boats from the Coast Guard fleet. The President emphasizes his intention to refrain from any intervention unless conditions should make it absolutely necessary because of American citizens and American interests on the island.

The Cuban government objects to the presence of our ships as "disturbing."

Cuba did not object when our ships arrived to sink the Spanish fleet and make Cuba free, but it is their country, and they have the right to object to anything, even "Yankee imperialism."

While Washington fears Cuba's troubles may result in civil war, the beautiful island, at present, seems to be under control of a capable citizen, a "top sergeant" of the Cuban army, named Fulgentio Batista. Descriptions suggest the able Mr. Grover Whalen, head of the NRA movement in New York city. Sergeant Batista, whose present title is "revolutionary chief of the armed forces of the republic," "always smiles, is square-jawed with a powerful physique, dark-haired, of medium height."

He got his information about things in general acting as a court stenographer in many military trials. His associates in charge of Cuba are a lawyer, a professor of anatomy, a banker, an editor, a professor of penal law. A democratic "junta."

Chancellor Hitler, "Messiah of Aryan or Nordic Racial Purity," likes the general idea of Facism, but can't join any international Fascist movement. Mussolini's crowd wouldn't do. Because it is Latin, not Nordic.

It is amazing how simple-minded racial mixtures like Hitler develop racial prejudices. The German chancellor should read Huxley's essay on "Methods and Results of Ethnology," in which the British scientist describes the effect produced by light-eyed, yellow-haired "Nordics" on Chinese of the Han dynasty, 300 years before Christ.

"Chinese historians describe with much minuteness certain numerous and powerful barbarians with yellow hair, green eyes and prominent noses, who, the black-haired, skew-eyed and flat-nosed annalists remark in passing are 'just the apes, from whom they are descended.'"

Those "black-haired, skew-eyed, flat-nosed" Chinese, as Huxley calls them, thought that any creature unlike themselves must, necessarily, descend from apes.

In New York's latest "murder case," a lady, Mrs. Millie Prince, 30 years old, married, with one child, admits that she stabbed to death an elderly man who wanted her to leave her husband and child. The middle-aged person, in business as a jeweler, gave the woman who killed him a card on which he had written:

"Go ahead, kill me. I deserve it." At least, she says so. She showed the card to the police, having replied to it by killing the man with 13 stabs.

So many stabs must have come from severe provocation. The jeweler is no longer here. The public asks "what will the jury do?"

The lady who did the killing, asked for an explanation, replied: "I just don't care; he deserved to die."

Crime goes ahead, regardless of threats, and must be expected to get worse as the end of prohibition interferes with bootlegging by which crime has been so liberally financed.

Police guards surround the residence of Cardinal Dougherty, threatened unless he produces $50,000. Police believe that the threatening letter was written by a "crank" or maniac, but they are taking precautions.

While police in America protect a Cardinal against threats, Brussels reports Belgian police protecting Professor Einstein

SOMERVILLE MAYOR TO BE U.S. MARSHAL

Murphy, Among First Here for Roosevelt, to Get Boston Plum

John J. Murphy, mayor of Somerville and one of the earliest figures in the Roosevelt campaign for President will be appointed United States marshal in Boston.

The information emenated from political circles today upon the eve of the arrival in Boston of Postmaster-General James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic National Committee and official patronage distributor of the national administration.

Murphy is said to have been informed of the likelihood of his appointment within a few days, and for that reason to have omitted the campaign he had intended to make for re-election as mayor. The new post will pay a salary of about $6000.

Murphy is concluding his second term as mayor of Somerville. He entered the campaign for Roosevelt upon its origin and stood as a delegate for him despite the sentiment of Massachusetts then known to be favorable to Al Smith. He campaigned for Gov. Brann in the striking Democratic victory in Maine and was influential in prevailing upon the Maine Democratic convention to pledge its delegates to Roosevelt rather than Smith.

His departure from Somerville politics will leave a battle royal there for the mayoralty. Among the many candidates already announced for his place are Senator James C. Scanlan, Rep. James E. Hagan, Alderman Leslie Knox and former Alderman George Pratt.

The post of United States Marshal, which is understood to be reserved now to Murphy has had many apartments. Among them are James H. Brennan, formerly of the Governor's Council, and Rep. William H. Doyle of Malden. Past State Commander of the American Legion.

The professor and his wife planned to get out of the country aboard the yacht of a friend. Their destination was said to be South America. Police placed a guard at his villa after report that a secret Nazi organization had set a price of 20,000 marks ($6800) on his head.

2-Gun Maniac Slays Three And Self

Belfast, Me., Sept. 8 (AP) A mentally deranged man, who for years had been considered harmless, ran amuck with two shotguns in the business section of the city today, killed three men, critically wounded another and then blew off his own head.

The dead were Adrian Jones, the slayer; Herbert E. Ellis, 65, an insurance man; W. W. Blaisdell, 75, and Raymond Blaisdell, 40.

R. E. Stanhope, a veterinarian, was in the Waldo General Hospital, and the superintendent said he could not live.

The business section of the city was thrown into an uproar as Jones, who had been considered harmlessly demented, came down Main st., with a shotgun in each hand.

He shot Ellis down in front of the Masonic Temple and then turned down Washington st. to the office occupied by the Blaisdells, father and son engaged in the trucking business.

After killing the Blaisdells, Jones went into Stanhope's office and shot him.

The second accident took place at Hammond and Beacon sts., Newton, when an automobile operated by Antonio Leone, of Cook st., Newton collided with another car operated by Hyman D. Jacobitz, of Arlington st., Revere. The injured were Jacob Berlant of Bryant st., Malden, Carl Jacobitz of Arlington st., Revere, Joseph Partoll of Summer st., Revere, and Morris Boritz of Malden st., Everett. BITTER SLOT WAR OPENS IN COURT

Four Arraigned After Bishop's Seizure in Cambridge

What probably will be the most bitter legal war ever fought in Middlesex County over slot machines opened today in Middlesex Superior Court with arraignment of two men and two women indicted yesterday, following seizure of 250 vending and amusement machines.

The machines were seized in the plant of American Candy Co., 1117 Cambridge st., Cambridge, where a small quantity of liquor is alleged also to have been found.

In court today there were arraigned Mrs. Rose F. Spieler, 34, of Summit ave., Brookline, president of the company; her husband, William Spieler, 34, of the same address; Anna Quatroni, 25, of Madison ave., Cambridge, treasurer, and Clifford Dumble, 52, of Park ave., Arlington, consulting engineer employed by the firm.

FIFTH MAN TO APPEAR

A fifth defendant under indictment, Thomas Callaghan of Glenville ave., Allston, clerk, was to have been arraigned also, but his counsel explained that he had been unable to notify Callaghan.

The four arraigned all pleaded not guilty to the indictment charges of setting up and promoting a lottery, keeping and exposing liquor for sale and conspiracy to do both.

Rose Spieler was held in her personal recognizance for trial, her husband was held in $5,000, Dumble was held in $1,000 and Anna Quatroni in $500.

Dist. Atty. Warren L. Bishop, who has been conducting a drive against slot machine operations in the county, told the court he believed William Spieler to be back of the manufacture and distribution of the machines, and believed Mrs. Spieler to be merely a "straw."

VALUED AT $35,000

He is convinced, the district attorney said, that the company has been one of the principal distributors of illegal slot machines in the state.

Machines were designed and made at the candy plant, Bishop charged, and the machines seized yesterday are valued at about $35,000.

Atty. Richard S. McCabe, former assistant district attorney of Middlesex County, appeared as counsel for the five and immediately announced he would vigorously contest the move of Dist.-Atty. Bishop in declaring the machines illegal.

"None of the machines that were seized is illegal. As a matter of fact they are all legal candy and game machines and will be proved such in court," Atty. McCabe said.

Three trips of the police patrol and several more with a furniture van were required to move the seized articles to a basement storeroom at the courthouse.

SAVED, BUT STILL NIBBLING

Baby Janet Brown, the little North Adams beauty who won her own 140-mile race with death when she either swallowed or spat out the object that was strangling her, had the time of her life trying to eat her daddy's watch at the Eye and Ear Hospital today. Thousands to March in NRA Buy Day Parade

(Other Stories on Page 15)

Once more the historic streets of Boston will resound to the tramp of marching feet, the blare of trumpets, the crashing roll of drums, when the NRA BUY DAY contingent blazes a new path in the progress of a nation next Wednesday, September 13.

But deeper than that steady beat, louder than that trumpets' call, more compelling than that drum roll, will ring the voices of thousands of children pledging their allegiance to the NRA and their adherence to the Blue Eagle.

PLEDGE AID TO PROGRAM

Boston's NRA BUY DAY is next Wednesday, Sept. 13.

Observance of that day will be threefold.

More than 150,000 children in all the Boston schools will be instructed in the lessons of the NRA at special sessions during the morning.

Mayor James M. Curley will call upon the children to take the pledge to support the President's program, when the massed thousands of pupils form about Parkman Bandstand in Boston Common at 2 o'clock in the afternoon in answer to a special proclamation by His Honor.

The climax comes with the "Over the Top" NRA parade an hour later, at 3 p. m., in which civic, patriotic and business organizations will participate. This parade will start at Clarendon and Tremont sts., following Clarendon to Stuart, to Columbus ave., to Park sq., to Boylston st., to Tremont st., up Park st. to Beacon, where it will be reviewed at the State House, and down Beacon to Charles st., the disbelief point.

HALF HOLIDAY DECLARED

In observance of the day Mayor Curley has declared a half holiday in all city departments and delegations from each will join the marchers pledged to the Blue Eagle.

NRA BUY DAY, approved by the mayor, enforced by the state and city NRA committees, and sponsored by the Boston Evening American-Boston Sunday Advertiser, will set Boston's name in blazing letters at the head of the nation's roll of those pledged to "Buy in September" and "Buy American"—to buy goods made by Blue Eagle firms and BUY them now.

Women Organize "Battalion of Death"; Junta Seeks "Anything to Prevent Intervention"; Fleet Arrives

ON BRINK OF CUBA'S ABYSS

Junta meets representatives of other factions in Havana to speed organization of new government and prevent U. S. armed intervention by naming President wholly acceptable to Roosevelt administration. No agreement reached and the meeting adjourned until noon.

Organization of an armed force said to be under way "to meet any American landing party with a hail of bullets." Meanwhile, Cuban cavalry routs rioters crying, "Down with Yankee imperialism!"

Women threaten to form a "battalion of death" to fight against landing of American military forces.

U. S. cruiser Richmond and destroyers McFarland and Bainbridge reach Havana. Indianapolis and battleship Mississippi expected late today. Secretary of Navy Swanson is on the Indianapolis.

BULLETIN

New York, Sept. 8 (INS)—Declaration that the University of Havana, long a hot-bed of revolution, has "assumed the government" of Cuba" was made here today by the League of Industrial Democracy, national intercollegiate socialist organization.

The league said it had received a cable saying: "Havana University, with the unanimous approval of the Cuban people, has assumed the government. Absolute order is maintained throughout the republic."

By ROBERT G. NIXON

Havana, Sept. 8 (INS)—Torn by revolutionary strife and internal discord and facing imminent armed intervention by the United States, Cuba strove today to select a new provisional government meeting with approval of the Roosevelt administration.

After nightlong negotiations with the leaders of ten political groups, the five-man dictatorship which took over the government after the coup d'etat which unseated Provisional President Carlos Manuel De Cespedes still rode hard in the saddle.

Meanwhile, women launched a movement to organize "a battalion of death" to fight American invaders, if any, and plans were laid by a radical group to "meet any armed American landing party with a rain of bullets."

Charging Cuban cavalry routed rioters crying "Down with Yankee imperialism," but bloodshed was averted here, where one drop may be as a match in a powder factory.

ANYTHING TO AVERT WAR

The island republic, focal point of concentration for 30 American warships ordered to Cuban waters by Washington, was still without a president, but ten powerful leaders had surged to the forefront of the revolutionary picture.

Fearing American forces would land from the Battleship Richmond, riding with the destroyers Bainbridge and MacFarland in Havana harbor since sunset yesterday, plunging Cuba into conflict with the powerful neighboring nation, the executive council of five strove to sweep personal issues aside and called in the chieftains of the ten leading revolutionary groups in an effort to reach an amicable accord.

These the ruling five named as an "advisory commission" to aid in solution of Cuban problems. Indications were that before the day is out they will have decided among them on a single leader capable of ruling as president and

JOHNSON DEMANDS FEDERAL CONTROL OF COAL MINES

'MUST ACCEPT OR I'LL GIVE IT TO THEM,' HE ASSERTS

NRA Chief Agrees to $2 a Ton Rise in Bituminous Price to Bring Agreement On Code

Washington, Sept. 8 (INS)—Rigid government control was proposed today by the NRA as the salvation of the far-flung bituminous coal industry.

The plan—more far-reaching than any yet provided in recovery projects—is contained in the code laid before the industry for approval by National Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson.

Despite clouds of opposition to many provisions of the NRA proposals, Johnson expected to obtain a substantial agreement before a code is proclaimed by the President.

After announcing he would accept modification proposals up to 6 p. m., Saturday, Johnson called a public hearing for Monday afternoon to air grievances.

'OPERATORS MUST ACCEPT'

The code, which provides for reduction of hours of labor, minimum wages, price and production control, may be modified before it is finally acted upon by President Roosevelt.

After submitting the code to the operators Johnson said:

"They've got to take it or I'll give it to them."

The code not only inaugurates a bold experiment in industrial planning but introduces a new and virtually compulsory method of settling all labor troubles and banning strikes in the bituminous field.

Confident the code will bring order in an admittedly chaotic industry, Johnson conceded that coal prices would have to rise to sustain the code.

$2 A TON BOOST

He said he would "stand for" prices advancing around $2 a ton. Coal advisers estimated that a 50 per cent increase in coal prices would be necessary to enable operators to meet their increased operating costs and make a profit.

As the coal negotiations neared an end, another huge industry—the $12,000,000,000 oil business—began its revolutionary experiment of national production control.

Authorized by oil's NRA code, the daily producing budget of 950,600 barrels fixed by the order of Secretary Ickes formally took effect. Officials here looked for price boosts as a result and were anxious to know just how much more it would cost the average motorist.

Johnson, meanwhile, looked forward to other problems pressing for attention. These included the important task of loosening credit for businesses which want to pay higher wages and shorten hours and the control of rapidly rising prices.

Rake Attack Woman Pays, Goes Free

Mrs. Margaret Day, the Scituate matron who began a 30-day sentence in Plymouth jail Wednesday rather than pay a $15 fine for assaulting a neighbor, is back home today—her fine paid.

She paid it herself last night after a talk with her daughter, Miss Mildred Day, a Boston school teacher.

Jail officials had sent for the daughter when Mrs. Day became hysterical yesterday nearing the end of her first 24 hours in a cell. Her hope that the daughter would prevail upon the mother to change her mind was realized after a conference and Mrs. Day returned to her home in Edgar rd., Scituate.

Mrs. Day was convicted of striking a woman neighbor with a rake. She denied it and said she would pay the fine as a protest against her conviction which, she said, was a miscarriage of justice. She also refused to appeal.

Lawrence Woman Hurt in Auto Smash

Methuen, Sept. 8—Mrs. Lillian Shwetz, 26, of 97 Boxford st., Lawrence, is under treatment today for injuries sustained when, according to police, the machine she was operating on Jackson st. extension was sideswiped by a car operated by Dr. Joseph L. Alie of 67 Pleasant st., throwing her forcibly against the driving wheel.

Police said that following the accident, Dr. Alex's car veered across the road, but was stopped without damage.

Doctor, Wife Hurt as Tire Blows Out

Coatesville, Pa., Sept. 8 (AP)—Dr. and Mrs. James McKenna, of Providence, R. I., were injured today in an automobile accident at Oxford, and brought to the Coatesville Hospital.

BILLY SUNDAY'S SON DYING

San Francisco, Sept. 8—The turbulent marital career of George M. Sunday, son of William A. "Billy" Sunday, famous evangelist, was climaxed last night in a three-story plunge following a reported quarrel with his wife. Sunday was critically injured.

A note scribbled by Sunday before he lapsed into unconsciousness, apparently dying in emergency hospital, and incorporated in the police report, said:

"I lost my balance and fell out. I had no argument. I had not been drinking."

Police said Mrs. Sunday revealed that her husband recently suffered a nervous breakdown and was worried about financial troubles.

Six weeks ago Mrs. Sunday filed suit for a divorce here, charging her husband was "sullen and morose." Four days later the suit was dropped.

OUT AFTER 38 POLICE YEARS

Capt. Lutz, Boston's original "traffic cop," applied today for retirement. And peering through a range finder into the colorful past, he conjured up a picture of himself—sideburns flowing in the slipstream—dashing down Boylston st. on his high-wheeled bike, tooting a shrill warning to some show-off cyclist who was endangering safety by a 10-miles-an-hour "no hand" sprint. That was at the tag end of the Gay Nineties, when the congested cycle and horse traffic in Boylston st. first demanded police supervision. And folks were cutting up on tandems.

Spanish Cabinet Resigns

Madrid, Sept. 8 (AP)—Premier Manuel Azana's cabinet resigned today and President Zamora announced formation of a new government.

CAPT. LUTZ WILL QUIT NOV. 1

Capt. Louis E. Lutz, commander of Police Division 13 in Jamaica Plain, and department drillmaster, requested today that he be placed on the retirement list Nov. 1.

The request was made, he said, at behest of his wife in order that they "might enjoy a few years together."

Capt. Lutz, the original "traffic cop" of the police department, who used to spin up and down Tremont and Boylston sts. on a bicycle, chasing speeding cyclists, has been in the Boston police department since Oct. 21, 1895.

He was promoted to sergeant on June 5, 1916, to lieutenant on Dec. 26, 1922, and to captain on May 11, 1924. Since Dec. 26, 1922, he has been department drillmaster.

Although Capt. Lutz's age has several times been in official dispute in connection with his police department service, he is now reckoned as a year and two months under the compulsory retirement age of 65 years.

According to the old record of his age carried on the police books, he would now be eight months over that age, but Capt. Lutz two years ago produced an old family Bible which contained the birth record of an unnamed son in his family.

The birth record was his own, he contended, and his contention finally was allowed.

35 Swim in 15,000 Gallons of Beer

Philadelphia, Sept. 8 (AP)—Streets ran beer—15,000 gallons of it—in the Manayunk section, sweeping 35 men off their feet, and the law which no longer affects beer is blamed.

The foaming, amber flood occurred yesterday at the Liebert and Bert brewery, where the hoops of a large vat, corroded during the years beer was illegal, gave way.

Brewery officials, estimating the loss at $5000, said several employes were bruised when swept along by the beer but none was seriously injured.

River Victim May Be Lost Bookkeeper

Brattleboro, Vt., Sept. 8—Authorities believe the body of a man found in West River on Monday was that of Ulrich Rolin, 35, book keeper for Manley Brothers Garage who disappeared last April when auditors began a check of his books in which there was an alleged shortage of $10,000.

Rolin's wife identified trousers taken from the body as those of her husband but positive identification was not expected until Rolin's dental views the body.

ARREST LOOMS IN IPSWICH DEATH CASE

Cregg Promises "Sensation" as New Witnesses Are Called

Salem, Sept. 8—A sensational statement was expected from District Atty. Hugh A. Cregg today in connection with his investigation of the death of Mrs. Madeline Gautreau, 53, wife of an Ipswich overnight camp proprietor.

Following receipt of a preliminary report from medical experts examining the bone of the dead woman, Cregg summoned witnesses from Ipswich and Lawrence for questioning.

He then called State Detectives William J. Murray and Richard J. Griffin from the Topsfield Fair and went into conference with them.

Later the district attorney said he expects "to have plenty to say on this case, one way or another, very shortly."

The calling of two new witnesses from Lawrence was based on the discovery of new evidence, aside from what may be contained in the medical report, Cregg said. He added their identity would be kept secret, because "what we have discovered cannot be discussed by my office at present."

The two Ipswich witnesses, it was learned, were the police chief and Dr. James E. Collins, who treated Mrs. Gautreau for blood poisoning.

Michael Gautreau, husband of the dead woman, who was questioned by the authorities, offered to assist the investigation in any way he could, and demanded exhumation of the body.

$171,000 for Town Already Debtless

Chardon, O., Sept. 8 (AP)—Consider the plight of Chesterland township! It has so much money it doesn't know what to do.

This month the township will receive $171,000 as the second payment of the inheritance tax from the estate of Walter White, killed in an automobile accident two years ago.

The first payment of $202,000 was spent for roads, a fine new school, payment of village debts and welfare relief.

The township faces the winter with $7,000 available for road work, township debts of $20,000, an indebtedness of $60,000 on the school and only 10 to 12 families on the relief list—but there will be $171,000 in the treasury.

"We'll put the money in the bank until we find out," says Mark La Moreaux, township trustee.

Hull Calls Cubans Our "Brethren"

Washington, Sept. 8—To the homely phrase that Secy. Hull uses in referring to foreign nations, a new one has been added.

Often he speaks of "our British friends," or "the folks down yonder."

He now refers to the Cubans as our "brethren."

$750,000 Is Added to Manchester Payroll

Manchester, Sept. 8 (AP)—Negotiations were completed today for the purchase by the J. F. McElwain Co., shoe manufacturers, of the No. 4 factory of the F. M. Hoyt Shoe Co. and the Dalton Paper Box Plant.

Major Francis P. Murphy, general manager, said the additional plants became necessary because of increased business and NRA restrictions on workin, hours. From 250 to 400 shoe workers will be employed, adding $750,000 annually to the community payroll.

Girl Swept Over Dam Is Recovering

Northampton, Sept. 8—Miss Elba Wheeler, 18, who is visiting friends in Clark ave., was today recovering from an experience which probably never came to a girl before. Swept over Wire Mill dam by the swollen waters of Mill river, the girl clung to a log under the dam for two hours until police and firemen closed water gates and rescued her. With a friend she had gone swimming above the dam, and when carried out of sight was believed lost. She had about given up hope when rescuers located her.

Court Permits Sale of Insurance Firm

St. Louis, Sept. 8—Circuit Judge H. A. Hamilton has approved the sale of the Missouri State Life Insurance Co. to a group of New York financiers headed by David Milton, son-in-law of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and Walter W. Head, former president of the American Bankers' Association.

Crickets in Panic! New Enemy Here

Flood and flame have failed, nor do the pests seem to be sensitive to profanity—and so Lynn called in a pinch hitter today in an attempt to wipe out the cricket plague born of the Irving rd. dump in West Lynn.

Charles Russell, representative of an exterminator company of Springfield, was due in Lynn today to try and make good his boast that he can exterminate anything but a woman's last word or a politician's promise.

After two weeks of battling the hordes of crickets which make the dump their home, and after spreading oil and gravel and water and flame over the terrain—only to have the crickets celebrate with lustier band concerts at night—Hugh J. McManus, in charge of refuse and garbage in Lynn, finally threw up his hands and admitted he was licked.

So now Charles Russell will try it and the crickets are panicky.

Leshure-Buchanan Wedding Date Set

Springfield, Sept. 8 (AP)—The wedding of Miss Barbara Deane Leshure, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard P. Leshure of this city, and Sir George Hector Lieth-Buchanan of Ross Priory, Alexandria, Scotland, will take place at Rowe, Saturday, Sept. 16.

Sir George is now on his way to this country and is expected to land next Wednesday. After the wedding he and his bride will sail for Scotland.

Gloucester Police Get Hero Awards

Gloucester, Sept. 8—Hero medals are to be awarded by the Massachusetts Humane Society to Special Officers J. Russell Moody and J. Henry Burgess. On April 1 they rescued two Boston men when their boat was caught in a storm off this port.

MAYOR O'NEILL IN PLEA; SAYS NOT GUILTY

Arraigned on Lottery Plot Charge; Released on Own Recognizance

Mayor Michael C. O'Neill of Everett and six other men indicted with him on charges growing out of the recent graft and corruption investigation in Everett, were arraigned today in Middlesex superior court.

The mayor is charged with conspiracy to promote a lottery, the government alleging that he was a principal in the operation of a fraudulent Irish Sweepstakes lottery.

Named as co-conspirators are John A. Grover of School st., Everett, and Peter J. Hartnett, a truckman, of Calumet st., Roxbury.

All seven pleaded not guilty. Mayor O'Neill was released on his own recognizance and the other six on the same bail in which they have been held, $1000 each.

For Hartnett, his attorney, Daniel J. Gallagher, asked a delay in setting the trial date for two weeks, so he might file special pleas. Other counsel asked delays also, and an extension of two weeks was granted.

On another indictment, charging conspiracy in connection with operation of slot machines in Everett, Anthony Della Porta, of John Mooney rd., Revere; Fred E. Fawcett of Nichols st., Everett, proprietor of an Everett beer garden, and Anthony Cataldo of Hutchinson st., Revere, were arraigned.

The seventh man to face Judge Walter L. Collins was James J. Shea of Winthrop, charged with conspiracy to bribe a municipal officer and conspiracy to violate the liquor laws.

GILCHRIST'S

INFANT'S BLOCKED WINDPIPE BAFFLES BOSTON DOCTORS

X-RAY FAILS TO REVEAL ANY TROUBLE

Wild Dash Across the State Dislodged Substance

Baby Janet Brown of North Adams, whose parents rushed her 140 miles to Boston by auto to save her from strangling, proved a baffling problem for doctors today.

Something happened in the course of that wild ride over the dangerous Mohawk trail. Whatever had blocked her windpipe is blocking it no longer.

She was breathing so much better when she arrived in Boston that the emergency operation was deferred, and today at the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary even an X-ray failed to show a hairpin, a bone or anything else.

PHYSICIANS PUZZLED

Every time the doctors looked in on her, there she was toddling about in her bed in the children's ward, tightly clutching the sides to keep from falling.

Her mother and father and aunt were with her, and her "daddy" gave her his watch to play with. She put it right in her mouth, almost giving the doctors something else to grapple with.

More X-ray pictures will be taken later, but in the meantime Baby Janet, who is just 13 months, alone knows what was wrong with her, and she won't tell.

DASH ACROSS STATE

Janet was rushed to Boston yesterday afternoon in her father's sedan which, pushed to the limit of its speed, made the 140-mile trip in slightly over three hours, under police escort.

Her mother had found her blue in the face and strangling. The parents ran with the baby to the North Adams baby clinic, where it was seen that the immediate danger was over, probably because the object in her throat had moved.

Dr. George Curran then ordered her taken to Boston with all speed in order that an operation could be performed with the proper facilities. It was expected that the lungs would have to be probed, but the child had mysteriously got relief, while being rocked in the arms of her mother and her aunt on the mad dash here.

Brookline Actress Weds New Yorker

Mrs. Samuel Altman of 1258 Beacon st., Brookline, announces the marriage of her daughter, Frieda, Sept. 3, to Boris Gamzue of Holyoke and New York city.

The bride was formerly associated with A. J. Beckhard and recently completed a run with Jane Cowl's company in "Camille."

Mr. and Mrs. Gamzue will make their home in New York.

Fourth Death Try Ends in Failure

A fourth attempt at suicide in a Cambridge cell following an arrest for drunkenness, took place in the Harvard square station when William J. Tuney, 28, of Kingston st., Charlestown was found hanging from the bars.

After treatment for a dislocated neck at Cambridge City Hospital he was sent to Boston Psychopathic Hospital.

Yawkey's Wife First a 'Christy Girl,' Then a Coolidge Guest

MRS. CHRISTY

MRS. BABE RUTH

Famous Artist Tells How "Babe" Ruth Found Bride, Too

The Cinderella story of how Elise Sparrow came to New York from Birmingham, Ala., posed for Howard Chandler Christy, accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Christy to the White House, and later married Tom Yawkey, sole heir to $22,000,000 and boss of the Boston Red Sox team, is told by the famous artist to show how most of the models who began their careers as "Christy Girls" have now achieved fame and fortune.

In his reminiscences, "Model Lives," set down by Isabel Leighton in the October Cosmopolitan, Mr. Christy relates that he first saw Elise Sparrow at an Atlantic City beauty show, where she represented Birmingham.

"I knew she hadn't a chance the minute I spotted her on the proscenium," he says. "Her nose wasn't 'classic,' and her mouth was too full, but she had a wholesome liveliness and a disarming sweetness that were entirely captivating."

And so, when Elise Sparrow went to New York to hunt for a job, she became one of the "Christy Girls"—literally—for she became part of the Christy family.

"Soon after this, Mrs. Christy and I left for the White House, where we were to stay while I painted the portraits of President and Mrs. Coolidge," Mr. Christy recalls. "We had been there only a few days when the thought of having left Elise alone in New York depressed us both, and on the pretext of needing her to answer the mail, we wired her to join us.

"When word was sent to Mrs. Coolidge's sitting room that Elise was in the reception hall I suggested that the Hoover, chief usher of the White House, divert her by taking her on a tour of the building, but Mrs. Coolidge, in her infinitely sweet way, insisted that the girl be brought upstairs to join us in a cup of coffee.

"Elise made her entrance, but she was so thrilled at meeting the President's wife that holding a coffee cup was more than she could manage. It fell to the floor with a great clatter.

"I shall never forget Mrs. Coolidge in that moment. In a sentence she convinced even me that dropping a coffee cup and spilling its contents was exactly what any well-brought-up girl should do in the circumstances, and in less time than it takes to tell all sense of embarrassment fled and the room filled with laughter. The President, who was at work in his study, decided to investigate the source of all this merriment and joined the party.

"Luck seemed to be perched on Elise's shoulder, for Tom Yawkey's mother extended an invitation to her to spend the summer at her country place in Michigan.

"On rainy day in the boathouse Tom convinced Elise that her happiness lay in a life with him. And soon she appeared jubilantly, exhibiting a magnificent engagement ring, and a $20,000 bracelet . . . Today, Elise has plantations, imported cars, Fifth ave. apartments, boats and shooting boxes."

Another Cinderella career was that of Mrs. Babe Ruth, who, Mr. Christy relates, came knocking on his door from Atlanta, and posed as a "Christy Girl" until he gave her a letter of introduction to Ziegfeld, and then she married Ruth.

MRS. TOM YAWKEY

Claire Hudson, top, right, as portrayed by Howard Chandler Christy, before she joined the Follies—and before she became Mrs. Babe Ruth. To the left is another Christy girl. In fact, THE CHRISTY GIRL, the famous artist's wife. She was Nancy Palmer, and of her Mr. Christy says: "In gaining the best wife a man ever had, I lost a superlative model." Below is Elise Sparrow, painted by Howard Chandler Christy before her marriage to Tow Yawkey, millionaire sportsman and owner of the Boston Red Sox. (I. N. P.)

Death Threat Bared in Divorce Trial

Fall River, Sept. 8—Seeking divorce from Mrs. Sarah Vanderberg on grounds of desertion, Albert Vanderberg, of Boston, contended his departure from their home under threat of death if he remained, was technical desertion on his wife's part. Mrs. Vanderberg denied the charges and the case was taken under advisement.

RECOVERY CALL SOUNDED FOR ALL N. E.

Cities Urged to Accept Re-employment Agreement

Cities and towns throughout New England were urged today to follow the example of Waltham and Walpole and sign the President's re-employment agreement, by the Massachusetts recovery board.

Such action, it was stated, would speed up the progress of the national recovery campaign tremendously, hastening recovery in individual localities and materially reducing welfare lists.

State recovery officials said complete acceptance by cities and towns would mean not only added employers and employes under code provisions but would be a powerful factor for influencing business concerns to back the movement.

More than 1,000,000 employes in New England are now working under the provisions of the NRA, it was stated. The addition yesterday of 11,998 employes in 1488 business establishments brought the total of 1,002,075 employed in 125,-954 business establishments.

Reports from the various states indicated that the consumers' drive as well as the campaign for the signing of employers to the President's agreement, is now about 90 per cent effective.

It was also stated that complaints of violations are being receive in large numbers by the Boston recovery committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

BOSTON PLANES HUNT BALLOONS

Army fliers at Boston Airport were ordered today, on instructions from Sec. of War George H. Dern, to begin an air search over Maine forests for four missing balloonists in two entries of the James Gordon Bennett races.

The balloons left Chicago last Saturday, with an estimated sustained flight limit of 80 hours, and today they were 24 hours overdue on the ground.

One balloon, an American entry, the Goodyear IX, were Ward T. Van Orman and Frank A. Trotter. The other balloon, the Polish entry, carried Lieut. Zbigniew Burzynski and Capt. Franciszek Hynek.

One of the missing balloons is that believed to have been sighted over Manchester, N. H., at dusk last Tuesday, From Sudbury, Mass., word came today that a man there saw a balloon drop to the ground in a lightning storm on Sunday. He believed the balloon might have been hit by a bolt.

Capt. Glenn Salisbury, commanding the First Corps area air detachment at Boston airport, was ordered to take a flight of seven ships to the north and begin the search.

CRANBERRY BOG STRIKE GROWS AS 800 QUIT

Big Crop Faces Ruin as Walkout Spreads in Plymouth

Plymouth, Sept. 8 (AP)—A strike of cranberry pickers spread today to seven more large bogs in the Plymouth area, with the walkout of 800 to 900 additional workers, and 1200 now are idle. The bogs affected include 15 of the largest in Plymouth, Wareham, Onset and Carver.

Most of the workers have allied themselves with a union organizer claiming affiliation with the American Federation of Labor, but whose authority has been denied by the state branch.

AFRAID OF PICKETS

They have demanded 80 cents an hour pay, instead of the 40 offered by the Cape Cod Cranberry Growers' Association.

Picking went forward today with greatly reduced forces. Difficulty was encountered in obtaining workers for 40 cents an hour and efforts were being made to recruit pickers from the welfare lists in the towns affected. Employers met with some reluctance on the part of unorganized workers to go to bogs patroled by strike pickets.

The larger bogs cover as much as 100 acres. Most of country's cranberry crop is raised in southeastern Massachusetts.

$1 IN WAR DAYS

The 80 cents an hour demanded is 5 more than has been paid in recent years, although 75 cents was paid before the depression and as much as a dollar an hour was paid during the world war.

Growers pointed out, however, that the price of cranberries during the war was $15 a barrel, as compared with $8 last year. This year's price has not been quoted.

The early black cranberries now are ready for harvest and failure to garner them would result in serious loss to the growers. The picking season lasts about six weeks and approximately 5000 workers are employed in the height of the season.

Officials at Mass for Drowned Couple

Ribston school officials and teachers, together with former associates in the 301st Field Artillery during the World War, gathered in St. Mark's Church, Jamaica Plain, today, to pay final tribute to Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Baile, who were drowned in Rindge, N. H., Monday.

The body of Mrs. Baile, found yesterday after a three-day search, arrived in Boston early this morning. Mr. Baile's body was found two days before. Arrangements were completed for the double funeral. The solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. F. S. McCarthy, who was assisted by Rev. F. V. Cummings, as deacon, and Rev. William Donovan, as sub deacon.

Yacht Pulled From Bar Near Chatham

Chatham, Sept. 8 (AP): The 60-foot yacht Trim, of New Haven, was hauled off a bar at Harding's Light today after having grounded in a thick fog. A coastguard picket boat pulled the craft free. Coastguards said the owner was a man named Murphy and there were four other men aboard.

Maybe He Didn't Like Windows

Portland, Me., Sept. 8—John Geason, 28, of 232 Forest ave., this city, was arrested this morning after a spectacular chase through Portland's business district. Geason is alleged to have broken 20 plate glass windows in 20 stores when he ran wild with a handful of rocks.

When the police were called Geason was dashing through the business area smashing windows with gay abandon. The police radio car took up the chase and on Forest ave. he was corraled after a stubborn fight, in which he hurled rocks at the policemen.

He will be arraigned before Judge Wilfred D. Chapman in Portland District Court today.

$600,000 Payroll for Fall River Plants

Fall River, Sept. 8 (AP): Municipal officials today forecast that salary and wage earners in the city would draw an aggregate payroll of $600,000 next week, the largest since the spring of 1931.

The new high mark is expected to result from the resumption of operations in several textile plants and the first drawing of salaries by school teachers beginning the fall term.

OTHER GIRLS IN READ'S LIFE, WIFE SAYS

Claire Windsor Shown as Balm Collusion Victim in Suit

Los Angeles, Sept. 8 (1:30)—Life as Mrs. Alfred C. Read, Jr., was not all billing and cooing, Mrs. Marion Read testified at her $200,000 alienation of affections suit against Claire Windsor, beautiful film and stage star.

In fact, testimony as elicited from her by Attys. Wilbur Pierce showed there had been quarrels over other women before Read met Miss Windsor, and that a divorce was contemplated before the broker knew the golden haired actress.

COLLUSION CHARGED

Sensational charges that Read and his former wife agreed to work together in the heart balm suit against Miss Windsor were made by the defense attorneys at a suddenly-called meeting before Superior Judge J. P. Sproul.

Attorney Pierce charged a conspiracy existed between Read and his wife to "collect" huge damages from Miss Windsor.

"We offer to prove that Mrs. Read asked Read to testify falsely and to aid her in this case," Pierce shouted at the height of a legal battle with opposing attorneys over the offer of supplemental proof."

INSISTS HE HAS PROOF

Walter Little, attorney for Mrs. Read, argued such an offer of proof was "preposterous," but Pierce went ahead.

"We can prove," said Pierce, "that Mrs. Read suggested that whatever money she received in judgment from Miss Windsor should be placed in trust for their two children and they could go on living together afterwards."

When court reconvened Mrs. Read testified she induced her husband to discharge private secretary, Miss Clarisse Champion of San Francisco, who came here Tuesday as a witness for Miss Windsor.

Mrs. Read said she quarreled with Read over seeing Miss Champion but denied she had accused the secretary of "staying all night" with him.

"I found out, though, that she had been forwarding letters to him from Miss Windsor," said Mrs. Read.

The attorney then asked her if she had quarreled over Harold Relasco, formerly an employe of Read's brokerage concern. She denied that.

The witness previously had denied any misconduct at a party in her honor at a San Francisco hotel in 1929.

Mother Rages as Daughter Elopes

Oakland, Sept. 8—A police inspector beamed at Mrs. Emma Vaslas as he advised her he had succeeded in finding her 18-year-old missing daughter, Catherine.

But Mrs. Vaslas, on learning her daughter had eloped with Manuel Marchia, a professional wrestler, showed such violent displeasure that it took six patrolmen to calm her.

FALL IN SLEEP KILLS REV. DR. PARKHURST

Ventnor, N. J., Sept. 8 (AP)—The Rev. Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst, militant minister who attained nationwide fame in the '90s as a bitter and victorious foe of Tammany Hall in New York City, died today an hour after he fell from the roof of his home. He was 91 years old.

Mrs. Grace Moore Parkhurst, a niece, Rev. Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst said he had been walking in his sleep of late but that his health had been excellent.

The aged minister stepped out of a window to the porch roof of the home of his nephew, Winthrop Parkhurst, with whom he lived here. He was taken to Atlantic City Hospital, where he died at 4 a. m.

HELPED OUST TAMMANY

A terrific attack he launched from the pulpit of his Madison Square Presbyterian Church in 1892 against what he termed a "damnable pack of administrative bloodhounds" started a campaign that resulted in the unseating of Tammany in New York.

On a wave of reform William L. Strong was elected mayor and Theodore Roosevelt was installed as police commissioner. Tammany came back after the Strong administration to put Robert A. Van Wyck in the mayor's chair, but later, with Parkhurst playing a prominent part, a Fusion movement again beat Tammany and elected Seth Low as mayor.

Although he retired in 1918, Dr. Parkhurst never changed his opinion of what he called political "corruption," and occasionally he issued a blast against it from his New Jersey home.

BLAME FOR CRIME WAVE

In 1925, at a gathering in celebration of his 85th birthday, he blamed a crime wave on the fact that Tammany was in complete control of the New York city government.

Four years later, he said a religion of simple belief in God and his righteousness was necessary to rescue the country "from the quagmire of multiple depravity, vile which we have nationally slumped."

His last public utterance was on his 90th birthday last year when he said that New York city was like a big house which needs a "thorough scrubbing every so often."

Music With Beer Banned in Lynn

Lynn beer drinkers must down their favorite beverage in public places with no more music than their own gulps. The Lynn license commission has ruled that music and entertainment are out in beer parlors, although they mix more or less harmoniously in other cities.

Conservatory Signs Exile From Germany

New York, Sept. 8 — Arnold Schoenberg, composer and music teacher, who is now an exile from Germany, will come to the United States next month to teach harmony and composition at the Malkin Conservatory in Boston, Joseph Malkin has announced.

Woman Tells of Asylum 'Horrors'

Worcester, Sept. 8—Claiming to have been imprisoned for two years at the State Infirmary in Tewksbury, Miss Dorothy Gleason, 23, retained counsel today and demanded an investigation of the institution.

She charged she was subjected to horrors for a month in the insane department of the infirmary as punishment for her refusal to carry heavy trays, and that other inmates are similarly punished, sometimes by being locked up with the insane for as long as six months.

Miss Gleason said that after a two-year battle for permission to leave the infirmary she was given a pass for one week a week ago that she might visit her sister, Miss Harriett Gleason, at 75 Irving st., here.

The girl said she had no intention of returning.

She became an inmate five years ago when her family was broken up by death and two years ago, upon reaching the age of 21, sought to leave and earn her living outside. Infirmary employes refused to let her leave, she said.

Miss Gleason indicated she may bring suit against the state. She said an official at the State House admitted she was illegally committed. She has a brother living in Ayer. Her attorney is Charles S. Murphy.

BAR TO ACT ON JUDGE STONE

The grievance committee of the Boston Bar Assn. will take up complaints filed against Judge Arthur P. Stone of Cambridge district court, in connection with the case of the Clarke sisters, in Federal Court on Oct. 5.

The complaints were filed by Frederick W. Mansfield, former head of the Massachusetts Bar Assn., and Mrs. Frank Page of Boston.

In the last session of the legislature, an order calling for an address to the governor looking to the removal of Judge Stone passed the House, but was defeated in the Senate. One of the main reasons given for the Senate action was that it was a case for the bar association to handle.

The grievance committee of the Boston Bar Assn. is composed of Attorneys Daniel Lyne, Robert Proctor, Wendell Murray, Elias Field, William G. Thompson and William Flaherty.

Cupid Gives NRA Catch Credit

Pierre, S. D., Sept. 8—The NRA may obtain credit for an increase in the marriage business.

A former South Dakotan living in Syracuse, N. Y., wrote Gov. Tom Berry that he wants a woman from this state for a wife and promised the governor a box of cigars for Christmas if he would help.

"I've never been married," wrote the man who gave his age as 38, "but I'm willing to try it under Roosevelt's NRA."

"If the public mind once firmly grasps this idea, then the recovery progress will bring recovery."

CUBAN WOMEN ARM; BULLETS TO GREET U. S. INVADERS

of satisfying President Roosevelt as to Cuba's peaceful intentions.

Gilt Louis XVI chairs were swept together into a semi-circle on the black and white inlaid marble floor of the presidential quarters as the junta and party leaders fought out the issue until 4:30 a. m.

PARLEY IN DEADLOCK

They finally gave Sergio Carbo, outstanding member of the council of five, a vote of confidence and agreed to accept any decision he might offer.

A few minutes earlier Ramon Grau San Martin, a member of the dictatorship quintet and president of the University of Havana, intellectual hot-bed of revolution and closed by Machado two years before he was ousted, separated from the presidential chamber and announced the conference was unable to agree.

The meeting was adjourned for several hours. The conferees were deadlocked on whether to maintain the present dictatorship and seek American recognition or whether to establish a new government with a provisional president certain to be received cordially by Washington.

One other alternative was considered, that of ignoring the United States completely and opposing intervention with bullets.

The new government plan, drawn by a "united Cuba" unanimously opposing American intervention, was revealed on high authority as follows:

1—All of the 500 officers deprived of their rank in Tuesday's coup d'etat will be restored to command.

PUT ISSUE TO U. S.

2—The new council of 15—the junta and the 10 party delegates—will rule until the new government is organized.

3—Great effort will be made to organize the new government and bid for American recognition before the American Secretary of the Navy, Claude A. Swanson, arrives on the cruiser Indianapolis this afternoon.

Regardless of minor differences, all political leaders agreed that after yesterday passed without formation of a rebel government there must be recognition by the United States, or intervention.

They united in a supreme effort to attain the former by organizing an administration that would win the approval of President Roosevelt.

WOMEN TO FIGHT

Women, taking a prominent part in the new movement, declared flatly they would form a "death battalion" to prevent the landing of American troops on Cuban soil.

"The women of Cuba," they said in a statement, "will be the first to arm and fight for liberty against any foreign intervention in our sovereign right to govern ourselves.

"If we must choose between liberty and death we are ready to lay down our lives for our native land."

While mounted troops of the revolutionary army formed ranks outside the presidential palace, holding back crowds of anxious citizens, machine-guns were trained on all approaches to the rooms where the provisional dictatorship of five met with leaders of the opposing elements, whom they had called in an effort to ride out the crisis.

Sitting in the parley were representatives of nearly all of the elements that had brought about the downfall of President Gerardo Machado, but who had split into warring factions after President Carlos Manuel De Cespedes stepped down from office.

Those present included Col. Roberto Mendez Penate, head of the Nationalista party and leader of the August, 1931, revolt; Sandigo Berdeja, a former congressman who represented at the conference former President Mario G. Menocal; Dr. Diaz Parado, of the revolutionistas; Alfredo Noguiera, head of the OCRR, radical revolutionary group; Aurelio Alvarez, former president of the Senate, who resigned under Machado; and Miguel Marano Gomez, former mayor of Havana.

Also in the group was the elderly Col. Carlos Mendieta, prominently mentioned as a likely candidate for the new presidential post. Exiled to the United States following the 1931 revolution, Mendieta has a large following.

The government has a terrific job on its hands to preserve order.

The greatest danger is in radical groups and Communists who are waging a relentless campaign against "Yankee Imperialism." Cavalry was called out to suppress one group of Reds who had staged a demonstration with this battle cry:

"Not one cent of the debt to Yankee bankers," and "out with the Yankee sailors at Guantanamo" (the American naval base on the southeastern tip of Cuba).

Navy Yard Thrills to Wartime Rush

New York, Sept. 8 (INS)—A frenzy of wartime activities stirred the Brooklyn Navy Yard from its normally peaceful routine today.

A detachment of 30 marines climbed aboard a Baltimore & Ohio bus shortly after daybreak, was ferried to Jersey City, and entrained for the marine barracks at Quantico.

The Destroyer Taylor slid away from her pier and steamed to sea under orders to proceed to Hampton Roads and stand by for concentration of the destroyer squadron when this unit steams en masse for Cuba.

Other destroyers were being made ready for active service. Ammunition and supplies were taken aboard, guns and torpedo tubes were checked, fuel pumped into tanks.

All shore leaves were cancelled as sailing orders were expected hourly.

15 States Legalize Child Labor Law

Washington, Sept. 8 (AP)—All the states that ratified the child labor amendment at the last sessions of their Legislatures have now certified to the State Department, bringing the legal listing up to the full 15.

The 1933 ratifications totalled nine—Michigan, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Washington, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Illinois and Oklahoma. Previously, six states had ratified—Arkansas, 1924; Arizona, California and Wisconsin, 1925; Montana, 1927; Colorado, 1931.

Kermit Roosevelt's Wife Pays $25 Fine

Jamaica, L. I., Sept. 8—A patrolman's verbal picture of Mrs. Kermit Roosevelt "burning up the road" cost the daughter-in-law of the late President a $25 fine in Jamaica Traffic court. Patrolman Ernest J. Davis said he clocked her at 56 miles an hour last Aug. 8 on Grand Central parkway, between Flushing and Jamaica.

CLIMAX NEAR-ROOSEVELT

Washington, Sept. 8—Expecting a climax today in Cuba, troubled affairs the Roosevelt administration went ahead with military preparations to meet any eventuality.

Concerned primarily about the protection of its own citizens in Cuba, the Washington government moved swiftly in mobilizing sea, land and air forces to safeguard not only Americans, but all foreigners as well as the Cubans themselves.

With the cruiser Richmond and the destroyers McFarland and Bainbridge already in Havana harbor, more than 25 other naval craft were approaching the center of disturbance.

There is a destroyer also in Santiago harbor.

The cruiser Indianapolis with Secretary Swanson and a full company of marines aboard, and the battleship Mississippi are due in Havana late today.

The Seventh Regiment of Marines is mobilized at Quantico, equipped, to be rushed to Cuba by air and water.

A squadron of marine corps planes was ordered to make ready to take off at any minute.

The squadron is composed of 12 two-place observation planes and several auxiliary planes.

Inclusion by the radical junta of all Cuban political factions in a commission to "study the entire problems," was considered in some State Department quarters as an advance toward stabilization of conditions.

But it still was remembered that should there be attacks upon foreigners in Cuba, treaty obligations imose upon the United States the onus responsibility of maintaining a government there "adequate for the protection of life, property of individual liberty," under the fifth amendment.

Ambassador De Lahoulaye of France made inquiries of Secretary Hull concerning a report that an unnamed Frenchman had been killed at Santiago.

U. S. Air Fleet On Secret Flight

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 8 (AP)—A squadron of six naval seaplanes is roaring down the eastern seaboard today on what is believed to be a non-stop 2000-mile flight to Coco Solo, base of naval operations in the Canal Zone.

The flying armada, commanded by Lieut. Comdr. Donald H. Carpenter and carrying a crew of 36 officers and men, shoved off from the naval air base yesterday at 4 p. m. on what was announced as a "regularly scheduled" flight to the canal zone.

But the blanket of secrecy that covered their departure, the presence of Rear Admiral Emerson J. King, chief of the Naval Bureau of Aeronautics, the air of suppressed excitement about the station as officers and men lined the shore to watch the giant planes roar away, Hampton Roads and the tight-lipped refusal of both officers and men to give any information as to the squadron's shedule of flight led to reports that the planes were away on something more than a "regular scheduled flight."

Nor is Coco Solo believed to be the final objective of the squadron, which constitutes the first division of VP-5. At Coco Solo, reinforced by the second division of six planes that left Norfolk last June, it is held possible that Commander Carpenter may again take the air to roar away on a 300-mile flight to San Diego.

KING FEISAL OF IRAQ DIES IN SWITZERLAND

BULLETIN

London, Sept. 8 (INS)—Prince Emir Ghazi was crowned King of Iraq today shortly after the death of his father, King Feisal, at Berne, Switzerland, it was stated in a Central News dispatch from Bagdad. A three-day period of official mourning was proclaimed.

Berne, Switzerland, Sept. 8 (AP)—King Feisal of Iraq, scholar and desert warrior, who, with the aid of the romantic Lawrence of Arabia, wrested a kingdom from the wreck of the Turkish Empire in the World War, died in a Berne hotel today following a sudden heart attack. He was 45.

King Feisal

Death came on the heels of Syrian troubles in Iraq, young-est nation in the League of Nations, that early terminated in reports that 600 Assyrian Christians were massacred.

The king, broken in health, was deeply angered by these charges, which undoubtedly contributed to weaken his heart. He came here from Bagdad a few days ago.

He was accompanied here by his brother, Ali, former king of the Hedjaz, who is in charge of funeral arrangements.

The body of King Feisal will be taken to Iraq by a British warship, starting probably Sunday from a French port.

King Feisal was born in 1885 at Taif, son of Sharif Husain and descendant of Fatimah, the only surviving child of the Prophet. He was educated privately in Istanbul.

After the great war, Feisal played an important part with Gen. Allenby and T. E. Lawrence in Arab revolts. In 1921 he was elected to the Iraq throne by a plebiscite.

With the assistance of British advisers and British forces in Iraq, the kingdom made rapid progress. Independence was recognized in October, 1932.

King Feisal married Sharifa Huzayma, the daughter of his father's brother, in 1906. There is one son, the Crown Prince Emir Ghazi and three daughters, the Princess Aesa, Raja, and Rafia.

His interests included cotton growing, poultry, and aviation.

Hotcha! Red Hair, Shorts Win Paris

New York, Sept. 8 (AP)—The ladies had before them today the latest fashion notes from Paris—plus a warning to be careful.

Miss Marjorie Howard, American fashion authority of France, spoke to a group of style leaders last night. Among the things she said were:

Women are mixing their own face powder this season in Paris.

The most popular color for hair is bright red.

Eyes are "languorous, not fiery."

Some women are wearing fingernail sheaths of solid gold.

Others are wearing large brooches in the smalls of their backs.

On the Riviera "every woman who could and many who should not were appearing in shorts."

That last reminded Miss Howard that she ought to sound a warning. She said women shouldn't try to be Mae Wests or Greta Garbos unless they really are Mae Wests or Greta Garbos.

Nazi Propaganda in Danube Bottles

Vienna, Sept. 8 (INS)—Something brand new in the way of propaganda was sprung on the Viennese public today.

Thousands of bottles containing Nazi leaflets were seen floating down the surface of the historic Danube. Passersby eagerly fished the bottles out and read the broadsides.

Police launched a systematic search for the perpetrators.

NRA Increases Pay of N. Y. Tel 3,000,000

New York, Sept. 8 (INS)—Payroll increase in the New York Telephone Company under the NRA will total more than $3,000,000 a year, according to an announcement today by W. Averell Harriman, state chairman of the voluntary NRA committee.

Harriman's announcement read:

"The New York Telephone Company has reached an agreement with its employes involving wage adjustment which will increase its payrolls annually by approximately $3,200,000.

Royal Pair Guarded for Danish Wedding

Fredensborg, Denmark, Sept. 8 (AP)—Royalty from many courts of Europe gathered here today for the marriage this evening of Prince Knud, younger son of King Christian X, and Princess Caroline Mathilde, the prince's cousin.

Hunting and garlands decorating the streets for the wedding were torn down during the night, allegedly by Communists. Troops were placed throughout the village, and the royal castle was strongly guarded.

Ashmont Man Killed by Elevated Truck

A backing truck knocked down, ran over and fatally injured Jeremiah Driscoll, 68, of 48 Carruth st., Ashmont, a Boston Elevated employe, in the Sullivan sq. today.

Driscoll was dead on arrival at Haymarket Relief Hospital. The truck, owned by the Elevated, was operated by Edward Callahan of Lawrence st., Charlestown, according to the police.

because of an alleged Nazi offer of $6500 to anybody that would assassinate the well known scientist. Police follow Professor Einstein in his daily walks and carefully investigate German tourists in his neighborhood.

Beauty queens from Belgium and elsewhere, here to compete for the title "Miss Universe," would probably be surprised if they could see all the samples of beauty that exist in the universe. Who knows what sort of lovely creatures inhabit the great Nebula in Andromeda, or Mars, and other neighbor planets.

Today's style of beauty earning the title "Miss Universe" will seem strange on the earth a million years hence, stranger than the ancient cave ladies seem today.

Today's beauty judging allows about 30 points for legs, 30 points for smile, 30 points for eyes, nine points for being too thin, one point for the forehead, nothing for the normal, well padded shape, called for by competent motherhood.

In connection with the disaster on the Erie railroad, many killed, officials blame the engineer of the milk train that caused the rear-end collision. That engineer was not to blame, however, for putting between two steel cars a fragile wooden day coach that splintered like a match box, and caused all the deaths.

BUY CAMPAIGN AND CODE ENDS SWEATSHOPS

By RUTH MUGGLERY

The abolition of the sweatshop the industrial rehabilitation country, the raising of hours and to the American public in general upon the purchasing power stimulated by the Buy in September-Buy American campaign were throughout the country in Hearst newspapers, Miss Margaret Wiesman, member of the Massachusetts Recovery Board and executive secretary of the Consumers League of Massachusetts declared.

Miss Wiesman is an additional Station WAAB place if the Consumers' League in favor of the Buy in September-Buy American movement. In urging the consuming public to Buy in September and Buy American as a patriotic duty consistent with the principles of President Roosevelt's Blue Eagle program, Miss Wiesman said:

"In asking you to give your wholehearted support to the Boston American's wise and timely campaign to Buy in September and Buy American, to buy as much as you can and to buy NRA merchandise at NRA stores, I wish I could picture for you what it means in terms of human life to have the older order changed, as only the success of the NRA and the Hearst movement can change it.

"Most of us are apt to think merely in terms of increased employment. This is of course very important but there is another side of such infinite importance that once you have considered it you cannot fail to give your support to Buy in September and to Buy American movement of the Hearst newspapers.

"Let us first of all think of child labor and remember the years it has taken to have children taken out of mines, out of hazardous occupations. Then remember the children you have seen going into mills and factories while their fathers were sitting at home idle, though eager for work.

"Then turn for a moment to conditions in the sweatshops of our state. When you buy at NRA stores you are definitely buying non-sweatshop goods and you are definitely helping good, legitimate manufacturers to prosper.

"If there is to be industrial success every one of us must Buy in September as much as we possibly can so as to encourage and help pay for the increased workers who are being added to the NRA factories. It is only in this way, by supporting the Hearst Buy in September-Buy American campaign, that the NRA which must succeed will succeed."

Backs Buy Plan

Miss Margaret Wiesman, member of the Massachusetts Recovery Board and executive secretary of the Consumer's League, talking over station WAAB last night urged the people to back the "Buy American" plan and the code as a means of ending forever the reign of the sweatshop in this country. LOMASNEY WILL PUT ON FILE

The will of Martin Lomasney, West End political czar, providing for the erection of a $10,000 memorial monument over his grave in Holy Cross cemetery, Malden, a memorial volume of his civic career and small bequests to relatives and friends, was filed in Suffolk Probate Court, today.

The will also provides that monuments be erected in suitable parks in Boston to perpetuate the memories of Archbishop John J. Williams and Mayor Hugh O'Brien.

Joseph Lomasney, his brother, receives the largest bequest, the will specifying that he is to be paid $2500 outright and $3000 annually from a trust fund.

William H. Prendible, clerk of Suffolk superior criminal court, a protege of the late political leader and named executor o fthe will, receives $2500.

Although the valuation of the estate is not made public, friends estimate it at $250,000.

SLAYERS OUT OF DEATH HOUSE

Arthur Brown Manchester, 24, saved temporarily from the death chair by Gov. Ely, who granted a 30-day respite, was removed from the death house in Charlestown today and placed in the Cherry Hill cell block.

In the same building are Herman Snyder and John A. Donnellon, condemned holdup slayers, who were granted a respite some time ago.

Manchester killed Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Pelletier in Westport. Representations were made to Gov. Ely yesterday that he does not know right from wrong.

Chin Kee, Boston Chinese, whose death sentence for the murder of Sam Lee, Melrose laundryman, was commuted to life imprisonment by the governor yesterday, was taken from Cherry Hill to one of the main cell blocks and will probably be assigned to the kitchen, in a few days.

1000 Jobless Will Go Collegiate

Milwaukee, Sept. 8 (AP)—Preparations were being made today in the Milwaukee center of the University of Wisconsin extension division for an influx of about 1000 unemployed persons seeking to equip themselves for future jobs. And those enrolling will receive instruction without charge. Classes convene Sept. 18.

The tuition will be paid from a $30,000 fund made available by the 1933 Legislature's relief appropriation.

This pioneer movement in relief — no other state is offering this kind of instruction—was launched at the request of Dean Chesler Snell of the extension division.

325 Tardy NRA Signers Give Alibis

The Boston NRA committee announced today that replies have been received from 325 of the 750 downtown employers who were queried as to why they were not flying the Blue Eagle. Most of those replying stated that they had already signed and were awaiting Blue Eagles from the postoffice or that they were signing immediately.

A number explained their delay, some stating that they had not fully understood the terms of the President's re-employment agreement and had waited to make sure of the requirements.

"SO HAPPY THAT I TRIED ALL-BRAN"

Delicious Cereal Brought Relief From Constipation

If you have headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness or any other of the frequent effects of constipation, read Mrs. Schneider's letter:

"Since I have been eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, I don't have to take anything else for constipation. How good it is, and how much better it is for constipation than pills or any other medicine.

"I would never go back to what I used to take, because Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is wholesome and healthful." —Mrs. John Schneider, 950 Tenth Street, Oshkosh, Wisconsin.

Constipation is usually due to lack of "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN has both, as well as iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the wastes.

Try ALL-BRAN in place of pills and drugs—so often habit-forming. Two tablespoonfuls daily will overcome most types of constipation. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Use as a cereal, or in cooking. Recipes on the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Peggy Joyce Gives NRA 'Love Code,' 20-Hour Day

San Francisco, Sept. 7—Peggy Hopkins Joyce agrees that the NRA is a "fine thing," but she points out that it completely ignores the marriage market.

So the blonde actress, whose much-discussed "fifth husband" is still in the offing, today offered to draw up a code guaranteeing happiness, though married.

PEGGY JOYCE

"Don't misunderstand me," she warned. "Like everyone else, I'm enthusiastic over the NRA. People will be able to relax, to get some pleasure out of life now."

But she couldn't resist taking a fling at a "marriage code."

"Fairness and co-operation are just as vital in this industry as in any other," she explained.

And here, husbands and housewives, is your chance to "do your part" and fly with the "platinum" eagle.

FOR WIVES

Hours of work: Twenty (mornings).

Hours of relaxation: Afternoons, evenings and Sundays.

Hours for entertainment alone: Every afternoon off, to go to theaters, bridge parties and teas with girl friends.

Hours for entertainment with husband: Woman's place is the home, when her husband is home.

Number of vacations together: Whenever her husband gets a vacation.

Number of vacations alone: Once a year, at least.

Percentage of husband's salary for wife: Fifty percent for her personal use and for the home.

Hours of sleep: Everyone needs eight hours.

FOR HUSBANDS

Hours of work—All day. If he doesn't work, he should stay away from home.

Hours for golf, fishing, etc.—Eight hours a week. But he should take his wife along if she likes to play golf or fish.

Number of nights at the club—Two nights a week.

Number of nights for poker—Get all that in on his two nights off.

Number of vacations alone—Once a year.

Hours for entertaining wife (dancing, dining, etc.)—They'll have to figure that out themselves. Men shouldn't be selfish. Even a picture show is relaxing.

Percentage of income spent for jewels—Give her nice presents for birthdays and Christmas. But he shouldn't spoil her.

Number of "dates" with other women—None.

Percentage of salary for himself—Fifty per cent, for his clothes and for entertainment.

Elliott Roosevelt States Aviation Has Kept Pace With Progress of World in Last Four Years

By ELLIOTT ROOSEVELT
Aviation Editor of the Boston Evening American.

Copyright, 1933, by the Boston Evening American

Los Angeles, Sept. 8—In many respects aviation in the United States has kept pace with the world's progress and has made good its promises. All it needs today is the realization by the public of the real importance of the aviation industry in the life of the people and the future of the country.

The object of these articles is to awaken in the average man's mind interest and confidence in aviation. Technical descriptions of advancement in this industry are often incomprehensible to the layman, as they are in every industry. With that in mind, let us brush by details of technicalities and glance at what has taken place in the past four years and estimate, if we can, what will come in the next four.

A good starting point is the series of interesting and instructive articles written in 1929 for the Boston Evening American by John K. Northrop, one of America's outstanding aeronautical engineers. He is the man to whom credit may be given for many of the advancements made in that four-year period.

IMPROVEMENT IN PLANES

Here is what he wrote then:

"Improved design, better structures, more reliable, cheaper and abundant power, new and better metal alloys and greater understanding of aerodynamics and weather are giving birth to the ideal plane of tomorrow."

The plane of tomorrow, visioned by Northrop, is here today.

Design of our sky clippers has undergone radical change in four years. Fantastic drawings, which visionaries drew at that time and serious-minded people regarded as idle fantasies, have, in many instances, been equaled and surpassed.

Norman Bel-Geddes for years advocated streamlined effects. Today these new shapes can be seen in use on the modern skyliners, such as the Boeing 247, the new Northrops, the Cord Vultaire and last but most impressive of all, the new Douglas transport.

These ships will make use of streamlining to get a maximum speed out of their power plants and utilizing that power for speed, instead of wasting much of it in dragging through the air cumbersome and bulky structures, which in the past have jutted out all over the surface of the plane.

POWER MORE RELIABLE

In improved design the following has been accomplished in the last four years.

The low-wing structure, streamlined shapes, retractable landing gear and what is technically known as the "wing-root" fairing—gracefully-curving flanges which bridge the sharp angles between the wings and the body of the plane and prevent whirls and eddies of air from impeding the forward flight of the ship.

Power is more reliable—it is cheaper and more concentrated than it was four years ago. We get more power per pound of weight and with less fuel consumption.

Metals used in the construction of the bodies and wings of modern airplanes are stronger and lighter. "Dural" and "Alclad" are helping reduce the weight and increase the strength of the planes. Some of the new aluminum alloys, available today, are from 20 to 30 per cent stronger for the same weight we used five years ago. New magnesium alloys, having the same strength as aluminum, weigh only two-thirds as much.

MORE SPEED ASSURED

Understanding of aerodynamics and weather has advanced so rapidly that today the air lines know more about weather conditions than is known by great ocean liners at sea. Today the pilot knows exactly what to expect and how to avoid what lies ahead of him.

There is no doubt that the planes of tomorrow, as pictured only a few years ago, are here.

Tomorrow's plane of tomorrow will arrive as quickly.

More speed is assured. Conquest of ordinary weather conditions is certain and complete mechanical safety and freedom from pow der, ice and imperfect workmanship undoubtedly are things of the past.

(Mr. Roosevelt, in this and subsequent articles, which will appear under his name, is writing as a private individual, and is not in any way to be regarded as having any connection with officialdom in Washington.—Editor's note.)

'Just Aimie's Gigolo,' Says Hutton

Chicago, Sept. 8 (U.S.)—Married life with Aimee Semple McPherson would have been all right, according to Dave ("What-a-man") Hutton, if some 20,000 members of Aimee's congregation hadn't felt it their duty to help manage the Huttons' domestic affairs.

Dave elaborated on this theme when he arrived here from Minneapolis, for a short stay.

"Marriage fails," he said, "when you find you are married not only to a lady, but to 20,000 members of her church, a lot of elders and a lot of old hens."

Dave said this was the cause for his breakup with Aimee, but that he would always harbor the friendliest of feelings toward his estranged wife.

"It's just this way," said Hutton, "I'm a man's man. And what I want is a woman's woman. I like to step out and have a good time with the other boys, but still I'm domestic.

"But I couldn't even get my wife alone. She was always surrounded with a hubbub of Angelus Temple folks."

Hutton said Aimee hates the word, but he was "just her gigolo."

"She wants me back, but I told her that the next time she got a man she ought to get rid of that crowd around her," he said.

MOLEY DEFENDS 'BRAIN TRUST'

Redford Springs, Pa., Sept. 8 (AP)—The so-called "brain trust," Prof. Raymond Moley says, has not been a "dominant" influence in shaping the policies of the Roosevelt administration.

Scoffing at the idea that the President is receiving too much "academic" advice, the recently resigned assistant secretary of state told the Pennsylvania Electric Association convention last night:

"In any process of broad and general planning, certain academic men are bound to be factors.

"That is because their training has directed them to see life whole. They are specialists in the articulation of many diverse things into unity.

"It is this function that some of them perform in helping to build this program; but they are by no means considerable in their numbers nor dominant in their influence."

Woman Slays Man to Save Son, Husband

New York, Sept. 8 (INS)—Held without bail pending action of the grand jury, Mrs. Millie Prince, comely suburban matron, today sat in a jail cell, apparently unworried, while police probed her strange story of the fatal stabbing of Charles Wolfert, 56, with a long penknife.

According to the young matron, she killed Wolfert because he persistently sought to force his attentions upon her and because he threatened to "have her husband and illegitimate son thumped off" if she refused to elope with him.

N. H. Boys Forsake West Point Chances

Washington, Sept. 8—The War Department has announced the resignation of Paul T. Clifford, of 78 Elm st., Franklin, N. H., as principal and Philip D. Robertson of North Conway, N. H., as alternate for the March 8, 1934, entrance examinations for admission to the United States Military Academy at West Point. They were appointed by Sen. Keyes.

IT TAKES HEALTHY NERVES TO RACE 132 MILES ...AT RECORD SPEED!

●ABOVE—CHARGING DOWN THE MIGHTY HUDSON to a thrilling finish in the long race from Albany to New York, Mrs. Florence Burnham, brilliant woman driver, set a gruelling pace! Mrs. Burnham drove her hydroplane superbly over the 132-mile course... to flash by the finish line the winner... in the record time of 3 hours, 37 minutes, 53 seconds!

●RIGHT—SHE TAKES NO CHANCES with her nerves. "I've tried most of the cigarette brands," says Mrs. Burnham, "but for a long time I have been an enthusiastic Camel fan. Camels, being so much milder, never ruffle or disturb my nerves, so I smoke them all I want."

●ABOVE—"I'LL NEVER BE a racing champion, but I love the water. And when I'm out on a boat I have a keen zest for smoking and do smoke a lot. To avoid getting my nerves upset and fidgety I changed my brand, and now smoke Camels. Camels don't interfere with healthy nerves, and they keep right on tasting good even when I go in for smoking in a big way."

IT IS MORE FUN TO KNOW

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand. Isn't this the most important statement ever made by a cigarette manufacturer? Consider what it means. Change to Camels and learn that it's the tobacco that counts!

STEADY SMOKERS TURN TO CAMELS

"The Albany-New York hydroplane race was a gruelling contest," says Mrs. Florence Burnham. "Three hours and a half of nerve strain! I never would have been able to hold my boat at record speed for hours if I didn't take every precaution to keep my nerves healthy. As a steady smoker, I have tried most of the cigarette brands. But for a long time I have been an enthusiastic Camel fan. Camels, being so much milder, never ruffle or disturb my nerves, so I smoke them all I want."

You are missing a new delight in smoking... an added safeguard of healthy nerves... if you haven't yet switched to Camels. Begin today. Your taste will quickly appreciate the natural mildness of Camels... and your nerves will confirm your taste—bringing overwhelming proof that Camel's costlier tobaccos do make a difference!

How are Your Nerves?

CREWS IN TRAIN CRASH QUIZZED IN PRIVATE

Binghamton, N. Y. Sept. 8 (INS)—Ready to lay the case before the county grand jury, Dist. Atty. Frank L. Wooster today prepared to question privately members of the crews of the two Erie trains which crashed here Tuesday night with the death of 14 persons.

Indicating he was unsatisfied with "too evident attempts to place entire responsibility for the crash on M. H. King, veteran engineer of the mail train which plowed into the rear of the Atlantic express, Wooster said he would conduct the private questioning in preparation for a coroner's inquest Tuesday.

Meanwhile, at a session off and on into the summer, the wreck before inspectors of the Interstate Commerce Commission, King declared sole responsibility for the crash.

"All I saw was going too fast to stop when the required distance from the yellow signal" declared I. At if he had been properly signalled by the fireman of the passenger train he would have called a halt. King asserted he passed fireman Charles Barry from the stopped train.

Three Costumes FROM ONE SUIT

One of the wisest things a college girl or business woman can buy, for practicality, right fashion and usefulness, is the three-piece swagger suit, a topcoat—over a tailored jacket. A minimum of at least three good-looking outfits can be made from this one suit.

Illustrated in the center is the well tailored topcoat worn over the suit, both in soft, sturdy tweed ($35). The hat is of hairy tweed, with a crest and feather to give added height. A jersey blouse ($5) of faded tile is buttoned in the front and has the new epaulet shoulder. This can be tucked in at the waist, or worn outside the shirt. Pigskin gloves ($3.50) are dark brown and match the pigskin bag ($7.95). The ghillies are $10.50.

❖ ❖ ❖

On the right, the skirt of the suit is worn with a new corduroy jacket ($4.95) and corduroy accessories in either Bright Green, Rose Heart Red, Bright Blue or Brown. The corduroy Beret ($2.25) is deep in back, shallow in front and very flattering. The corduroy scarf is priced at $1.55, the bag at $3.45 and the gloves at $2.25. The walking shoes in this ensemble are of Forstmann Tweed, boucle and calf ($10.50) and have the perfect continental heel. Three center front buckles fasten snugly over the instep.

❖ ❖ ❖

On the left, a tip is taken from the well-dressed man and a silk blouse and tie are worn with the suit. This blouse ($6.95) has a neat, tiny foulard pattern, gold or wine or rust on green, to brighten the tweed of the suit. And with this are accessories of soft Antelope—certain chic for the tailored town costume. Beret ($5.00), Pull-on Gloves ($4.50) and Duo Bag—a bag with a cover, calf on one side, suede on the other, easily reversed and practical ($3.95).

THIS BIGGER AND BETTER BUSINESS IS REQUIRING MORE WELL DRESSED YOUNG WOMEN WORKERS

By CHARLINE DAVIDORT

It is a recent trend that points out of the subway, off the trains and trolleys and buses itself off briskly to its daily tasks. Further more, it is a very well dressed crowd, these business women you meet almost every day of your life.

There are blondes and dashing brunettes, red heads and in between and almost every one of them is neat as a new pin, pressed to the nth degree and dressed in the latest this and that.

How [illegible] this do [illegible] army of alert and attractive women look it over? We can but wonder why ask it. They do [illegible] would rather not. Just think of the dignified president sitting behind his so very dignified desk—and tongue for his secretary. Now there is a friendly swish of skirts and a welcome change of atmosphere while Mr. President shows them and puts on his glasses so he can dictate more wisely—or look wiser when he dictates.

their job, an important [illegible] dressed in just the [illegible]

Not too [illegible] two tweeds, worn [illegible] a bit of white at the throat [illegible] dash of color, [illegible] take your [illegible] the tailored costumes [illegible]

Can you imagine [illegible] your office as it [illegible]

Were desks ever dusted and [illegible] put here and there to take off the austerity of "the business atmosphere" before the present of fairest girls moved in to man the desks and the appointment sheets?

It is up to some of our better business men to remember "the good old days" when John or Jack limped in with the rheumatism to take a letter and now they should say fervently, "I am glad those days are gone forever."

Let us add along with Tex Guinan, Give the little girl a hand—she deserves it, doesn't particularly want it, much too efficient and knows her stuff so well that she doesn't need it. But let us give her a hand anyway.

Remember—desks are polished, birthday dates of wife and children remembered, idiosyncrasies of best customers kept in files, and letters notated in a hur—appear as perfect English manuscripts.

We have been spreading our praises on just one branch of the willing workers.

What to do about the tearless of our children? Could we stand forty or fifty squirming little keys of dynamite ready to blow up with energy any minute? No. And a couple of more ons.

What to do about the nurses in our hospitals? Could we stand the laments and complaints of weak humanity at low ebb? Oh—NO.

What to do about the women who endeavor to please us in the shops? Could we be pleasant and keen saying with a smile, 'May I help you?'

Perfectly dressed (tailored), tactful and very polite, let's give all the business girls a GREAT BIG HAND.

It's our Private Secretary Suit!

Beauty Hints

Hair is shorter and curls are mounted high on the head this fall.

The curls can't be too much in evidence from nine to five.

Make-up must be so securely put in place that the powder puff and the lip-stick can be forgotten during office hours.

And remember all artificiality is as out of place in the sanctum sanctorum of big business as a lace evening gown is at a football game.

Want Advice?

If for any reason you are not satisfied with the way you look and want expert advice on the kind of clothes and the colors you should wear, we would be glad to give you the name of a woman whose business it is to know the very latest styles and advise on their adaptability to different types and temperaments. This service is free. Will you kindly write the Fashion Department of the Boston Evening American and enclose a self addressed, stamped envelope with your inquiry.

FARLEY TO HEAD P. O. PARADE

Headed by Postmaster-General James A. Farley, a parade will precede dedicatory exercises at the new $8,000,000 Federal building tomorrow, postal officials announced today.

The parade will form on Boston Common. Farley will motor from the Copley-Plaza to the Common and there pick up the marchers, including 200 postoffice employes, the Fort Devens band and members of Harris Post, A. L., composed of postal workers. Eight mail trucks will be in line.

From the Common the route will be up Beacon st. to School, Washington, to Water to Postoffice sq.

While carpenters were busy erecting a platform in the square today, Boston's federal forces were moving from the old Youngs Hotel quarters they have occupied for three years. Records dating back to 1868 were included in the files.

Kicks Cat Dizzy; Is Held by Court

Minneapolis, Sept. 8—Kicking a cat that she knew to be dizzy constituted cruelty to animals, Municipal Judge Mander Bourneford found out.

Bauerfeind was convicted of kicking his neighbor's pet, Aurora. The cat, said a veterinarian of the Animal Rescue League, is dizzy and was bowlegged because of the kick.

New Treasure Hunt Sunday

The crowd is waiting for Sunday to join another great Treasure Hunt at Paragon Park.

Through the Boston Evening American there will be hidden 308 envelopes with cash and other prize certificates.

There will be 53 cash prizes with several ten and five dollar certificates while the other 225 certificates will be for the various amusements about Paragon Park and round trip tickets on the Nantasket steamers.

There is nothing hard about the Treasure Hunt. All you have to do is to purchase a Boston Evening American on Saturday and make sure to cut out your entry certificate to go on the Treasure Hunt. Without the certificates you can not get into the hunt, because on finding a Treasure Hunt envelope, you must turn in at the Administration Building office accompanied by a hunter's certificate.

To Paragon Park, where these 308 prize Treasure Envelopes will be placed on various amusements, there will be no admission fee. Everybody with a Treasure Hunt certificate will be able to walk right in without charge. The certificate from the Boston American gives you all the freedom at the park. And you may leave Paragon Park with enough money in your pocket to outfit the young'sters for school.

The miniature Kiddie Park will have some of the Treasure Hunt envelopes, so don't be surprised should the youngster of the family come up to you with a cash or other prize of the 308 awards.

Have you tried the Treasure Hunt of the Boston Evening American? It's easy. It's fun. And above all, you get valuable prizes. It's taking place for the second time at Paragon Park on Sunday. The group on the Nantasket boat above enjoyed last Sunday's Treasure Hunt.

SCHOOLS READY TO MARK NRA BUY DAY

Boston's NRA BUY DAY will be signalized in Boston schools next Wednesday.

The move to enlist the youth of the city in the NRA and obtain their pledge to the Blue Eagle will mark the entry of the children of this decade into the New Deal.

Through the co-operation of the mayor, the superintendent of schools and the Boston school committee, more than 110,000 children enrolled in the Boston schools will be instructed in "What the Blue Eagle Means" to them and their families, and familiarized with the processes of the NRA.

On next Wednesday morning the "Blue Eagle" primer containing questions and answers on what the NRA signifies will be distributed to each school boy and girl in the city.

This primer compiled by the Boston Evening American and the Sunday Advertiser in the continuation of these newspapers' support of President's campaign. It will explain in clear language what every good American should be an NRA consumer and why "Buy in September" and "Buy American" is vital to the success of the drive.

After each child receives his or her copy of the primer and understands the meaning of the NRA and the Blue Eagle, a mammoth group of the children will march in line 15 years ago [illegible] to join the Boston NRA parade [illegible] next week just as they were [illegible] the "go over the top" with the NRA BUY parade next Wednesday, but [illegible] the American Legion posts and [illegible] auxiliaries. Mayor O. K.'s -:- Half Day for Buying

CITY OF BOSTON

CITY HALL

JAMES M. CURLEY
Mayor

MAYOR CURLEY

Septem[illegible]

To the Department Heads:-

A general observance of National Recovery Act Day will take place September 13 under the auspices of the Boston Evening American and the Sunday Advertiser.

The purpose of this observance is to inaugurate a movement to be known as "Buy in September and Buy American Made Goods". The translating of these slogans into action by the people of America should prove of inestimable benefit in the creation of opportunities for employment for men and women at present without work. Recognizing the value of the program as outlined by these newspapers, it is my opinion it is clearly the duty of the City to cooperate and you are accordingly directed to grant leave of absence without loss of pay to persons in your Department, whose services can be dispensed with on September 13th, from 12 o'clock noon to closing time.

James M. Curley

Mayor Curley has approved the project launched by the Boston Evening American and the Sunday Advertiser—setting forth a half-holiday in the "Buy in September—Buy American" drive. The day is Wednesday, September 13th. See what the mayor has to say. Read his letter to the department heads in the Boston city government.

VICTORY DAYS ARE PLANNED

Miss Mary H. Ward, chairman of the Women's Division of the State NRA board, said in endorsing the "Buy in September" movement:

"The Buy movement was the driving force back of the Consumer's Drive; from the very beginning every woman worker had in the back of her head the thought that if she had folks sign up as consumers she must crystallize these pledges and put the buying power they represented into something concrete.

"As soon as each city and town sends in to me their 100 per cent pledges, I immediately have the women get together with their local merchants and have a Victory Buying Day. We are suggesting that they have Dollar Days, Coupon Days and Special Merchandising Days.

"We are educating the women to buy things they need now, and things they feel they may need soon, while they will be able to get them at these safe prices, and to use the new found dollars in the pay envelope, explaining that this will mean more dollars in pay envelopes later.

"We are urging them to refrain from hoarding just when the wheels of industry are starting. They are asked by beginning to sense the value of this advice and are meeting the situation co-operatively.

"By the time our September 30th National Buying Day has rolled around, Massachusetts women will be ready to consume buying steadily and intelligently, not only for the benefits they themselves already feel, but because they see how it is helping the entire country."

NRA 'LIFELINE' TO CAPITALISM

The NRA program is neither Fascism nor Socialism, business and industrial leaders were told today at the 20th annual national business conference of the Roger Babson organization, at Wellesley.

"The capitalist class has been thrown a lifeline in the NRA that may save that class temporarily," said Michael H. Flaherty of Boston. "NRA does not provide anything that might be seen [illegible] by Socialists.

"It is really but a makeshift form of state industrial control. NRA's best feature from the Socialist point of view is the opportunity it offers workers to organize."

Harold L. Varney of New York said any attempt at dictatorship would be resented by the people and might jeopardize the venture.

"Prior to the new deal, American capitalism stood self-convicted of incompetence by its inability to present workable program which would meet the crisis," he said.

"The NRA has now given us such a program. It has destroyed the challenging promises of the Socialist and Communist who had declared capitalism must die because incapable of self-correction."

U. S. Position in British Trade Off

Washington, Sept. 8 The position of the United States in the import trade of the United Kingdom declined from 12 per cent of the total in the first six months of 1932 to 10.7 per cent in the first half of 1933, according to figures compiled in the Department of Commerce. With tariff and exchange situations favoring the use of British Empire products, there was a disproportionate falling off in imports from non-Empire countries.

Pickford-Moore Secrets Bared in $250,000 Suit

New York, Sept. 8 (AP)—Echoes of the days when the Mary Pickford-Owen Moore marriage was terminating reverberated down the years to mingle today with the complaint of a zigzag actor who is suing the film actress for $250,000.

Edward Hemmer filed the suit, saying that in the old days he acted as "foster father, adviser and business manager" for the actress and members of her family.

The complaint, as quoted by the Herald-Tribune, said he and Miss Pickford's mother "were vigorous opponents in the annulling of the defendant with Douglas Fairbanks prior to her divorce from Owen Moore, but nevertheless defendant persisted in associating with Fairbanks."

He said that this led to such disputes between him and the actress' mother on the one side and Miss Pickford on the other "that during the year 1922 the situation came to a climax and the plaintiff agreed to sever his long relationship with the Pickford family."

Hemmer said he was promised Miss Pickford's mother would compensate him in her will. No such bequest was made. The actor added he had been assured by Miss Pickford that if her mother failed to leave him a bequest, she herself would pay him a reasonable compensation.

Within two weeks the bill of exceptions will be presented to Walsh for his approval and Atty. Slade will then ask the high court to assign a date for hearing the case. Mrs. Jelke is 26 and her wealthy husband is 52. She is receiving an allowance of $600 a month.

BACK BAY WOMAN ASKS $25,000 FOR LOST LOVE

This Is Life

—By ROBERT E. ROGERS—

The "Youth Movement" launched a day or two ago by the associated young peoples' organizations in Boston ought to furnish an interesting study to people who are interested in social experiments. When the parochial schools combine with the Y M C A, the Y W. C. A and the Y M H A the Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts, the Newsboys Foundation and the Girls' Friendly Society, there would seem to be a unanimity of purpose and plan which certainly should show results.

The immediate purpose is to swing this organization to the aid of the NRA, in the hope that eventually it will be valuable enough to become a part of the national program. But beyond that its founder, Mr. Edward A. Filene, has in mind larger purposes and more serious ideals.

* * *

Mr. Filene has just returned from a study of the "youth movements" of Europe. He sees conditions in Europe as very alarming and believes that organized youth constitutes one of the strongest influences in these conditions. Everywhere he sees the youth of the land turned into radical or revolutionary channels. Where fascism or communism have organized the government, they are quick to organize the children, he says:

"Naturally, I was shocked and horrified to see the beautiful, priceless enthusiasm of youth devoted to such a purpose. I felt there were the strongest reasons for helping start an organization of our American youth to co-operate in the noble purposes which have united our American people.

"Youth, so enlisted for the national cause, cannot be enlisted for revolutionary and irresponsible radical causes—cannot be enlisted even for partisan purposes in their immaturity."

I hope he is right. But I dunno! I am afraid that the history of the past decade in Europe has shown that organized youth, organized from the highest motives and for strictly patriotic purposes, has shown itself to be more extreme, more intolerant, more given to violence, than its elders are.

* * *

A decade ago we were hearing a lot about the spiritual beauties of the German youth movement, how it was internationalist, pacifist, near-Christian everything that is opposed to violence, hatred, war, and misunderstanding. And now we learn that the backbone of the Nazis is these same young people. It is the organized young people who are the shock troops, the street ruffians, the extremists in doctrine and practice. They are more hitleric than Hitler!

We are told that in Russia the extremists, the pure and ardent doctrinaires who will sacrifice their own relatives to the State, are the youngsters, those who have grown up since 1917 and who have been organized under the sacred name of patriotism for the service of the state. To them it is literally true that they hold the state dearer than parents or brethren.

And, other things being equal, the same seems to be true of the youthful Fascists in Italy, whose devotion is unquestioned.

Now all these three movements cannot be dismissed as merely revolutionary or merely irresponsible radical movements. They are without question great patriotic movements, intensely devoted to the preservation and enhancement of their respective states. In that respect they differ no whit from the ideals of the Boston youth movement. The Boston movement is to be devoted to the maintenance of an existing ideal. But so is the Communist and the Fascist movements. So, even already, is the Nazist movement.

The point I am making is merely this. Our American youth are often criticized for Landlecaism, for apathy and indifference, for lack of enthusiasm in great public matters. In which respect they are like their elders. No one except a few alarmists worries about these young revolutionary or radical. There has been no danger of that during the past four years. There is no danger of that now.

But better a thousand times that they remain as they are than that they become like the youthful Communists, Fascists, Naziats, drilled and exhorted into ways of thinking that can lead only to intolerance, repression, the boycott, violence, the brutal pressure of the organized youth of Europe.

There are many of these that would like to see our school girls and boys organized as the shock troops of a narrow and reactionary theory of Americanism. If the NRA were to lead to that, even indirectly, that would be the last shame of the depression.

We do not want to see the American flag given the Fascist salute.

VANDALS WRECK SCHOOL; HALT OPENING

Wollaston Building Flooded by Youths; Police Called In

Dire punishment today awaited young vandals who wrecked the Massachusetts Fields grammar school, Beach st., Wollaston, apparently in resentment at the re-opening for the new school year.

Under orders from Mayor Charles A. Ross, police and school officials started an investigation to discover the culprits whose activities caused damage estimated at $15,000.

The worst havoc was wrecked by inundating the two-story building with water from a fire hose, causing firemen to chop holes in the floors, with the result the school will not be habitable for some time.

Evidently entering the building after the first day's session ended, the youthful vandals gave full vent to their destructive capabilities. They smashed desks, tore books to pieces and hurled ink bottles around the rooms with monkey-like glee.

Pictures were torn from the walls and smeared with ink, maps, flags and statuettes drenched with it, and seats covered with the fluid.

Then the boys removed a cap from a large waterpipe at the head of the second floor corridor and turned on the water.

Firemen, summoned by neighbors alarmed by the sound of rushing water, found six inches of water on floors and corridors. Police were called and found a number of fingerprints.

Byrd to Claim Vast Land at Pole in Name of Uncle Sam

New York, Sept. 8 (INS)—Rear Admiral Richard E Byrd today declared his forthcoming expedition to the Antarctic is for the purpose of claiming a vast new continent for Uncle Sam.

"The scientific goals," he said, "are also an important reason for the expedition. Although" added with a grin, "I'd go just for the adventure itself."

"What some scientists don't realize," Byrd said, "is that an ice age is going on in Little America. The ice floe is in full swing. But under the ice, I believe, is a continent the size of United States and Mexico combined. If I am right, then the United States and no other nation has claim to it."

Byrd saw two immediate gains to industry and aviation as a result of his last expedition.

"We discovered a vast unlimited coal vein. This, under certain conditions, can be mined commercially." Byrd was referred to as the shortage of coal predicted by scientists to come within the next 25 years.

"Another immediate advantage," he said, "will be in establishing a base to facilitate a shorter and safer route from Africa to Australia in certain seasons of the year.

"And undoubtedly we will discover oil in Little America."

The expedition, according to Byrd, is being backed by the public.

"Over 1100 manufacturers have supplied us with funds and supplies."

Although the expedition has no official connection with the government, several navy men have been given leaves to accompany Byrd to the South Pole. Chief among these is Lt. Commander Schlossbach, U. S. N., who will alternate with Harold June as pilot for the exploring group.

"Science," said Byrd, "plays an important part in this trip. We are going to get some new data on the cosmic rays. We are also going to conduct investigations in meteorology, oceanography, the height of the heavy side layer of the radio wave, geology, and fossil remains. The Carnegie Institute, of Pittsburgh, is giving us the equipment to establish a South Pole base for the study of magnetism."

Colonel Jacob Ruppert's sole comment on the expedition was:

"Well, if they discover a new continent, I hope they start a new baseball club." Ruppert is reputedly the chief financier for the trip.

Byrd, however, said it will be at least five thousand years before the new continent will be fit for human beings.

GREET TEACHER IN HOSPITAL

With new pencil boxes from home and happy smiles on their faces, 30 boys and girls at the House of the Good Samaritan on Binney st., Roxbury, greeted their school teacher yesterday.

Unlike their strong friends who returned to the regular public schools of the city, these children take their lessons according to doctor's prescription.

They are all victims of childhood's most crippling malady, rheumatic heart disease.

Although there are 80 children at the hospital, only 50 were reported well enough to be in school and of this number 52 will constitute the "bed school." The others, who can be out of bed three hours a day, are allowed to go to the schoolroom.

The hospital school is a part of the Boston public school system and comes under the supervision of Principal Charles M. Lamprey of the Martin Grammar school. The enrollment this year is the largest in the 15 years of the school, according to Mrs. Grace R. Corrigan, the teacher.

CODE OVERFLOW IN SCHOOLS

Overcrowding because of the NRA campaign has created a crisis in Boston public schools and may result in abandonment of the $1,000,000 continuation school, according to Supt. Patrick T. Campbell.

He said if the provision of the NRA forbidding employment of minors is strictly enforced, not only the continuation school but two city trade schools may also be given up. The system of training in the latter calls for alternating weeks of instruction and employment.

Supt. Campbell said that nearly 400 high school graduates, unable to obtain employment because of the depression, have returned for post-graduate courses.

SHINING AND IMMACULATE--YOUR HAIR HAS AN IMPORTANT PLACE IN BEAUTY PLANS

A New Dry Shampoo Does Not Disturb Your Curls Nor Erase Your Wave

By Therese Deschamps

YOU SHAMPOO your hair every five days. Your neighbor is perturbed at the idea of washing her hair more than once a month! Yes, it is—I know a graduate nurse, a specialist in skin ailments, who never washes hers more frequently. Granted, there may be a good reason for your frequent shampooing, and her infrequent cleansing rites. Like your Miss Sabre, in "If Winter Comes," you can always "see the other fellow's side" and never decide what is best for your self.

But there's this much that's certain. The less frequently you do shampoo your hair, the more you must guard against the fact that though unmistakably oil-and-dirt-free, it is not dull and dingy.

An English actor once tactfully said, "The American woman is more careful about personal details than any other woman in the world, with the exception of their hair." And since it is true that American women are the most frequent patrons of the hairdressing salon, it would seem to reduce he meant for us to keep a particularly well-coiffed hairdress as long as possible. But shampooing is one detail that is overlooked.

So it is with great pride we produce out of our capacious sack of beauty tricks a liquid dry shampoo. Keep your wave, you say? But keep freshly shampooed every other day, if you have the time, how it will add to your beauty, your joie de vivre and such.

For a long motor trip, manna. Every night the dust might be removed with a few simple strokes. Great for week-end beach trips for last dips in Indian summer, and back to work or social duties the next day with no annoying suds.

And for the business girl there is another wonderful idea. The evening she has scheduled for a shampoo may be turned into a party night with some one who has dropped into town quite suddenly. The shampoo will take too long, you say, so she is deprived because she would like to rest her fluffy head to rest peacefully on cort's shoulder in the theater and tomorrow she must be her usual well-groomed self in the office.

If you would like to know the name of this liquid dry shampoo, please send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Beauty Problems and Answers

Picking Eyebrows

Question: I have plucked my eyebrows for the past six or seven years, and now they are very rough. There are tiny "bumps" toward the outside of the eye. Please tell me what to do.—Mrs. A. J. G., New London, Ct.

Answer: The constant plucking of eyebrows has evidently irritated the roots of the brows. You always rinse your eyes as well with hot water and then soften with a good cream before plucking them? This is very essential as plucking cold hairs irritates. But do you realize that penciling eyebrows is a thing of the past? When you pencil your sacred evening or social affair, wash well with warm water and rinse in cold, pat the roots of the brows with a soft towel and then, with warm water and cream, remove the pencil. The excess will come off under the cream and also the pencil. Then apply a dab of powder and rub the face with powder puff. Attention to improving your brows brings reward.

Only Soap and Water

Question: I am 34 years old and have never used anything more than soap and a pot of cold water on my face. My skin is smooth and lively. But I want to keep it that way. Should I start using creams on it? So far, it is still perfect."—Miss W. W., Brooklyn.

Answer: For all most ordinary purposes, soap and water is the best cleanser. But a dry skin may have to use a rejuvenating cream for a fleeting period.

A FAN DISCOVERS THE COQUETTE IN YOU

The vogue of the fashionable '90's in matters of hats, figures, dresses and even amusements is unquestionably established, according to Boston fashion experts, and it requires no great flight of fancy to predict certain nuances of the vogue which are bound to develop.

In that other day of blushing and coquetting, which, oddly enough has been recalled by the direct and unblushing Mae West, one of the stellar factors of the social routine was the proper use of an ornamental fan.

Now it is freely predicted that the gorgeous fans of other days will soon be shown by the smartest shops the nation over . . . for the theater, the opera and all dress functions. Beauty will welcome these ornamental aids and once back—long may they wave.

Your Feet--Should Be Your Best Friends Instead of Angry Enemies

By Charline Davenport

AND DO they burn at the end of a long day? We are talking about feet. Difficult to go out and do a merry hot-cha if your feet aren't with you in the spirit of the dance.

There is only one way we have discovered to keep the smile in place and the disposition in order, and that is to have our feet well shod in smart shoes with good sensible heels during the day when we are covering miles of ground around the house with the floor mop, walking in the woods with the children, or pacing the pavements looking for the new fall dress or socks for the family.

Can you imagine how well our operations would get along, if the nurses in the hospitals had not made the great discovery years ago that foot comfort in large doses is their first gesture toward efficiency?

High Heels

Don't misunderstand us about our enthusiasm over high heels. The higher and more frivolous the better—after 6 o'clock. If you have been able to forget your feet during the day—the change into the golden slippers after nightfall will be a happy one.

And another thing—it isn't necessary to be positively "common sense" about flat heels while we are asking you to make your feet good friends—instead of enemies—some of the cutest shoes in the world to wear while actively engaged in trotting about, are smart as they can be. It is twice as easy to be graceful with a good solid foundation under you—and do we want to be graceful? Even when we're dodging traffic.

Sturdy Stride

Give us a free, sturdy stride when we have to go places. Roller skates may come in for a third year, who knows, but as long as we have to make the 5 1/2, or walk in the park with the baby, let's do it with as much comfort as possible.

Haven't you seen little shoe slipped off surreptitiously under the table, or the desk?

So here we are. But no longer. We have our "puppies" (as they say in the South) shod so comfortably these days that even a scooter-bike couldn't get us places much faster than we can now make it on our own power—and we are for more and better COMFORT in the new suedes and soft leathers.

Finger Tips in Fashion Parade

By ANNICE BRINK

LET'S CHUCK our Bostonese inhibitions out of the window, at least once a week, and do something particularly gay with the nails. True, when the new friend objects to our vivid nails we can't chuck him out of the window, so the next best thing will be to always appear before him with innocuous pink fingertips, and reserve the others for get-together-s with the girls. It's good for you!

Painted nails for an afternoon will change the quietest of us into a worldly sort of personage, and the effect will last way into an evening full of natural finger nails. He will notice the change in you, but you needn't give way the secret of your rampage in color if you don't want to.

* * *

The deep brown shades called Liquer should be complemented by oxblood fingertips. If yours are particularly well shaped, like those of a little actress we saw today (hers looked like tulip petals) paint all over every bit of them, coving both the half-moon and the white top nail. Then a pert might sing of you, were he the appreciative kind, as having "lotus hands of old India tipped with richest rubies, and scented with the blossom of the azalea." Yes, that's the kind of delirium that vivid nails cook up in me!

The changeful, bridled red is swell with a soft rose shade called "bois du rose." A surprise combination is blood red with pansy blue. At night, you might try for subtlety by using pale coral with a gown of dusty blue. The funniest sort of masculine escort will be intrigued.

* * *

If you truly can assume the role of a sophisticate with the certainty that it will ring true then go in for any of the super-unnatural shades like onyx, bronze, pearl and platinum. Believe me, who stared agape at someone dressed in oxford grays and blacks, with nails done in deep red and dull aluminum (where else but in New York?) you simply can't tear your eyes away, once you catch sight of the ensemble.

How to Drive Husband Away

By HELEN ROWLAND

OF COURSE, the most popular way to get rid of a husband (in America) is to persuade him to buy you a ticket to Reno, pay your hotel bills and lawyer's fees and settle your gambling debts, while you are waiting to tell the judge what a "friend in human form" he is.

Helen Rowland

* * *

But if you dislike crossing the Rockies, a simpler and much less effective homsome method is to BORE him to suicide—or another woman's arms. Nagging, whining, fighting at bridge and wasting money are not enough to send some husbands skidding.

* * *

Start right out by raising a racket or making a scene every time he tries being pleasant and polite to a pretty woman. Many a man never knows that he IS interested in other women until his wife accuses him of it.

* * *

When he staggers home all tired out evenings, always have the house full of jolly, bridge-playing, gin-drinking women. And spring a bright surprise on him by telling him you've laid out his evening clothes and booked him for a dinner dance.

* * *

Correct his English, criticize his manners, censure his drinks and smokes and insist on picking out his hats and his haberdashery for him. He had only been taking care of himself for twenty or thirty years before you met him—so he needs a guardian.

* * *

Always put him through a thorough questionnaire when he comes in twenty minutes late. That will make him feel just like a "trusty" back from parole. And keep reminding him that he OWES you all his devotion—because every man adores a creditor.

* * *

If he doesn't elope with a blonde and give you grounds for a divorce, after you've followed these little rules, I can tell you lots more ways of getting a man's goat and becoming a "deserted wife."

Bridge Fare Served in One Convenient Installment

HERE'S AN IDEA for serving refreshments at a bridge that should put us in the hall of fame, or somewhere. At the stroke of 10:30 P. M. take away all your lovely monogrammed cards and substitute cards that you will willingly throw away after the refreshment period.

Have the dummy with one movement of the arm switch the loaded tray onto the card table. There will still be some space left to play on (the tray's 18 inches compact).

Then instruct the players to place on the plates provided, smear their choice of anchovy, cheese, ginger, marmalade, or any other oddment dragged from a dark corner of the pantry, onto the toast with the left hand. A beverage might be placed beside each plate by the aforementioned dummy, and as soon as you can play and as you play you can eat.

Anything in the idea of this sandwich that is really a quick and convenient time and labor saver. Bridge could never be called an exercise, but it sharpens appetites in some mysterious way. "Here's everything you wish for, want," you can announce. Eat and let the crumbs fall where they may." And your invitation as a bridge hostess will be topnotch forever after.

OPERATOR 13

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

Girl Spy Sees Necessity of the Capture of Lady Greensleeves

READ THIS FIRST

Gail Loveless, experienced actress at 20, was sent into the Confederate lines as a Union spy. Disguised as a quadroon laundress, she deceived everybody, including Capt. Jack Gailliard, gallant young spy in the Confederate service, who was ashamed to find himself so deeply stirred by her saffron loveliness. But Vespasian Chancellor, gangling, hawklike chief of Confederate spies, presently exposed her and she fled for her life, stealing Gen. J. E. B. Stuart's horses. She stole also the clothing of a little farm boy to make herself appear to be a little Negro stable boy.

Outwitting the pursuing Chancellor and Gailliard, she captured them one at a time and led them toward the Federal lines where all knew they would be hanged. But on the way they stumbled upon the dreadful spectacle of a Union army hanging a Confederate spy, and Operator 13, sickened, freed her prisoners. Before he rode away, Gailliard kissed her passionately and she kissed him. Then she rode into Emmettsburg, Maryland, at dusk.

Exhausted, she gave Gen. Stuart's horses to a young man who spoke the pass phrases of the Northern secret service and, at his advice, lay down under a tree to sleep. The man, a Southern spy, brother of the one hanged that day, betrayed Operator 13 to the beautiful but implacable Lady Greensleeves, Confederate spy, who was living in Emmettsburg. At pistol point, Lady Greensleeves captured Operator 13, but in the confusion occasioned when the Confederate cavalry rode into town the girl escaped.

Fleeing into the country, Operator 13 met a troop of Federal lancers riding toward Emmettsburg. She told their commander, Capt. Cadwalader, that the town was full of enemy cavalry, but he insisted on going to see, taking one soldier along and dragging terrified Operator 13 by her collar. In the dark he spoke to the Confederate riders and one of them exclaimed: "He sounds like a Yankee!"

Republished from Cosmopolitan Magazine and sent to paper by special arrangement with Cosmopolitan Magazine and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, owners of the Motion Picture rights.

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

Capt. Cadwalader turned on the unseen speaker with an authority commanding what he meant by insulting a Confederate officer. A heat instant Operator 13 wriggled out of his grasp and vanished in the darkness.

Whoever it had been that had dared to challenge a Philadelphia Cadwalader subsided, grumbling. Nobody else ventured to question him.

Very coolly the lancer-captain rode on a little way, then turned his horse and rode leisurely back again and out of the fatal village, followed by his corporal, who was almost fainting in his saddle.

Ten minutes later a company of the Sixth Pennsylvania Lancers [illegible] Cadwalader [illegible] and Lieutenant Frederick [illegible] Which seemed likely to solve their immediate problems, but which offered no solution whatever to the perplexities that beset Operator 13!

She dared not run—although her legs implored her to make [illegible] of them. She scarcely [illegible] eyes to slits, [illegible] fence toward that column of horsemen which had now begun to move off slowly through Main [illegible]

Iron Bantam: The Ring Saga of Billy Petrolle ↕ Fights Fuller Because His Manager Is Broke

By AUSTEN LAKE

Billy Petrolle, who is hired by the Garden for a scientific squabble with Sammy Fuller tonight, is the standard size of a hotel bellhop with a face that might have been carved from Quincy granite and a nose like the inverted snout of a coffee pot. One of nature's truants he is, who, now nearing 30 and after 11 years of chopping others and being occasionally chipped himself, is still going strong at a stage when most fighters are withered, fungus-faced hasks who live on what is left from their earnings, or on the bounts of their friends, or as public guests in some goofy home where between days spells and periods of hallucination, they spend their days in clipping paper dolls.

Despite having studied fighter's faces for more than a dozen years and having found them pretty uniform in their quilted and scarred appearance I am still morbidly curious about their bulges and swellings and find myself estimating the amount of physical pain that it must take to so alter a human countenance from nature's original design. Tommy Griffiths, for instance, has a face that seems to have neither beginning nor end, one that is a series of hilly blobs and inflations like a putty mask that a disgusted sculptor has flattened with a swipe of his hand. Mickey Walker has a comical leer under the heavy ledges of his brows and a snooty nose, given him by repeated slitting of his lips.

Petrolle's face looks as though it had been worn down on an emery wheel, not spread so much as blunted. But his eyes are directly dissimilar to the milky glaze that comes late in fighting life. His specimen is a pair from one of the brisk and stammer of a mid-dance digestive by heavy hampering on the nerve centers. And his ears have none of the greasy, fingery tremors of the boxer who is approaching the stage of early decay. As much as a man may judge another's state of health I would say that Billy has a lot of wear left in his physical machinery.

Why Petrolle is Fighting Fuller Tonight

In boxing society no sensible person believes much of what he hears due to the traditional gift for mischief and sentiment and the boys who teeter on their stools and rock the long afternoons away in Newspaper Row or in the squalid muscle-houses that pass for fighter's training camps like to lie you to death. So when I hear that Petrolle is fighting Fuller tonight in an extra curricular scratch because his manager and spiritual adviser is broke, I would merely give it the Uh-huh if I did not know Jack Hurley's quaint reputation as the softest touch in a business where one-half is always living off the other half.

Hurley's wisdom in money matters is limited to advising other people and he virtually whipped Petrolle into investing his earnings in Dakota first mortgages and government bonds. For himself he scattered his own money through a hose nozzle and gained the name of Sawbuck Jack for his readiness to peel a government engraving off a roll. Now, one times a friend who had not seen him for years would run up on the shoulder and be surprised, to find a ten spot shoved into his hand and hear Hurley's melancholy voice say, Pay me when you can."

Well, the rest of the story, as the curbstone heel rockers tell it, is that Hurley had to go to the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., last winter to undergo a serious operation. At which time he sent out a broadcast to the borrowing friends who owed him the best by amount of $50,000. Being broke himself he mailed out a dozen letters to his principal debtors saying, "If you can't pay me all pay me what you can." And any informant says, "Would'ja believe it? He didn't get a single reply, much less a single dollar."

"Yeh?" I said, "and then what?"

"Well," said my man," Petrolle goes for him and that's why Petrolle is fighting so much now."

Why? I asked, "Petrolle does not need the money. You said he is rich.

Oh" said my man, "Petrolle is fighting so Hurley can earn enough money to pay him. Petrolle, back again.

Merely One Way to Spend the Evening for Billy

I first saw Petrolle fight each other on a chilly evening last June 15 at the Polo Grounds when the tough, monkey-like man swarmed all over a harmless looking Dutch boy by the name of Bep Van Klaveran at the outset of the fight and smacked him over the left eye with a right hand hook that spread a crimson smear over the boy's face in one round caused the medical commission to utter cackles of alarm, and leap into the ring to prevent, what one writer predicted, would have been a holocaust. I do not know what a holocaust is but it spoiled what was intended to be a very pleasant evening for 15,000 fans, who, from their sullen growls, seemed to think that the least the commission could do was to hand stitch the wound in the middle of the ring and throw Van Klaveran back to the monkey man.

At the moment the inspection was going on, while the medical man pulled the gory flap this way and that I watched Petrolle in his corner. He was the picture of boredom, giving no glance to his opponent and finally, when a decision was reached, gathered the hem of his ring robe and slide through the ropes with a wooden surliness.

If any fighter has a set of chill nerves it is Petrolle and where I have seen college football men in a quiver of anxiety before going onto the field, and can mention a dozen major league pitchers who have the flutters before they start to work, to Petrolle a fight is merely an interesting way to spend an evening. With a comparable zest and appetite for fighting like his, Jack Sharkey would have been the greatest heavyweight in history.

There was the time, in 1926, when Petrolle, a few days after being married and six weeks since he had done his last training, decided to spend his last evening before starting a new campaign in a New York spaghetti shop. While he was stuffing himself with the gluttonous food Hurley received an emergency call from a Newark promoter.

"I get $10,000 in the house and one of my headliners run out on me," wailed the promoter.

For a $2900 cash advance Hurley promised to deliver Petrolle at ringside in an hour. Hastily gathering the fighter, who was bulging with spaghetti, Hurley taxied and ferried him to Newark. Not once during the trip did Petrolle ask who he was fighting or where. During the bout he wheezed and wallowed around the ring, finally smacking his man flat and narrowly missing a collapse from indigestion as the referee held his hand aloft.

"You got that one fast," he said to Hurley on his way home, "what'd we get for it?"

"Twenty-five C's," said Hurley.

"Oke," said Petrolle, "try to pick up another tomorrow night."

BEST BASEBALL TOWN

A smart, sharp business man, he knows that Boston, day in and day out, is the greatest baseball city of all. He has seen the great crowds which the Braves have attracted. He has an idea of the profits which have accrued to them. Jesse Haines and Wilcox and Grimes and Sisler and Rabbit Maranville and those other youngsters who are going to make life most uncomfortable for the Yankees and Philadelphians when spring rolls around.

The hand of doom is lying heavy on some veteran shoulders just now, as Almada and the others step up to trim their whiskers. If is no sure thing that Lyn Lary, Jolley, Dale Alexander, or Johnny Hodapp, among others, will be back next year, despite the fact that they are heavy hitters.

1932 YEARLINGS A POOR LOT

Lou [illegible] AP—Sixteen thoroughbred yearlings cost their purchasers $7000 or more when sold at auction last year at the Saratoga sales or privately. So far this season, not one of them has earned its purchase price.

The most expensive of all, The Triumvir which cost the Greentree stable $14,500 for last year's futurity, has not yet won a race. He has earned [illegible] $ second in two races run over muddy tracks, and has been [illegible] also runs four times out [illegible].

On the other hand, the [illegible] stable's Black Buddy, a colt [illegible] $4000 as a yearling, is third in the two-year-old money-winning list, with $25,580, won this year. Burton's Wise Daughter, fifth in the winning list, has proven the best investment so far. Costing just $800 as a yearling, she has won $21,540.

Charles T. Fisher's Red Star and Col. R. Bradley's Blandy, leaders of the juvenile parade, with winnings of $7115 and $6[illegible] respectively, were bred at farms operated by their owners and were not purchased at auction last year. Fisher's Main Man, fourth with winnings of $24,070, also was owner-bred.

Some good investments were the Brookmeade stables Cinabrook, which cost $1200 and has won $12,030; William Zeigler, Jr.'s, Bonanza, which cost $2500 and has won $11,925, and Calumet farm's Madagal, which cost $4000 and increased his earnings to $19,305 by winning the Champagne stakes at Belmont yesterday.

Worcester, Sept. 8 (AP)—Unsettled with probably heavy storms reads the football forecast for Holy Cross, where Dr. Edward Mulcahy is picking up the threads of his interrupted coaching career.

'Twixt Tee and Cup

By BILL GRIMES

Despite the threatening weather, there was a fine turn out [illegible] the opening day of the Blue Hill Country Club open tournament, which got underway yesterday. Delegations from practically every Greater Boston club have reserved starting times for the three day Blue Hill open and it is predicted that a new high entry record for the season will be established.

Ben Black and John Shepard, [illegible] had a close call in their match with Willie Howard and Payson Lowell. They were four up going to the 12th hole but birdies on the 14th, 16th and 17th holes, and a par at the short 17th by their opponents squared the match. The Shepard-Black duo managed to pull themselves together and won the 18th hole and the match.

Ned Bement served himself and his partner, Ralph Stuart, in the quarter finals against Chet Teele and M Harvey. Just as his team was all but bow out of the championship flight, Bement began to click and squared the match and then came up with a win at the first extra hole.

Bob Taylor put the works on his former boss, Art Ross, in the third round. Playing with Bill Adams, Taylor eliminated Ross and Perley Chase at the 19th hole.

Yesterday was a tough day for low handicap teams, for it cost Eddie Murphy and Newman Drake, Frank Craven and P. J. Mullaney, Willie Howard and Payson Lowell, Ned Peterson and E. W. Porter, Don Ritchie and John Rosenfeld, Art Ross and Perley Chase, Wilfred Ogg and Henry Baldwin and "Hap" Kern and Jack McCarthy their championship flight rights.

The N. E. F. G. O. will hold an amateur-pro tournament at the Marshfield Country Club next Monday. The participants are in for a treat for Marshfield is one of the best tests of golf in this vicinity.

The M. G. A. had announced that the Inter-State matches, between Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut, would be held at the Weston Golf Club on Saturday, October 7.

Dan Horan informs me that Bill Hammond has been reappointed manager of the Portland Country Club. In an attempt to reduce expenses, Portland cleaned house a year ago, releasing Hammond, Dan Horan and Alex Chisholm, but instead of improving conditions the change proved to be a dismal failure, and the old crowd may all be recalled.

For the past year Dan Horan, who was the state handicapper before ill health overtook him, has been living at Beechwood st., Lebanon, and would appreciate visits from his old friends. Dan's health is now almost normal but he has been at leisure since severing connections with the Portland Country Club.

Emery P. Stratton and Charlie Crane are due for a shot round at Canton River. Although they have won four matches they have been been strokes above their normal game and it is just [illegible] John Shepard's luck [illegible] round to arrive [illegible].

Doris Donovan gives her race string, which consists of one horse, Miss Donovan, a few last minute tips before a race. The child, eight years old, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Donovan. Donovan trains W. H. Gallagher's stable. Miss Donovan was given Doris by Al Jolson, famed singer of stage and screen. The racer is registered in Doris' mother's name. But really belongs to the little girl. She's one of the youngest race horse owners in the world.

Business Abroad Sharing Gain in U. S. Recovery

Washington, Sept. 8—Business abroad is sharing the gain achieved in recovery here. Department of Commerce reports find conditions in the United Kingdom are fairly good for this period of the year and definite emergence from the trough of extreme depression seems indicated by both statistical evidences and business confidence. Foreign trade of the Netherlands shows a rise in imports. A tendency toward improvement has appeared in Czechoslovakia, featured by lower unemployment, more active construction, and some industrial encouragement.

Polish foreign trade has increased slightly over the previous month in both import and export categories and the balance remained favorable. Statistics available for the first half year's business in Rumania reveal a gain over last year except in foreign trade.

Recovery in Egypt is slow but steady, the leading factor being stronger cotton prices; cotton exports have increased lately but for the season are below the previous season in quantity; owing to higher export figures, the trade balance was favorable in the second quarter in contrast to last year's import excess.

The situation and outlook in the Union of South Africa are still relatively favorable, with gold mining profitable and other mineral production tending to increase.

Soft Coal Output Above a Year Ago

National Coal Association from incomplete returns estimates, based on the railroads estimates bituminous coal production in the United States for the week ended Sept. 2 at about 7,950,000 net tons. Production for like week of 1932 was 5,644,000 tons and in 1931, 7,701,000 tons.

Report of Bureau of Mines shows production of 7,600,000 tons for the week ended August 19 and 7,754,000 for week ended August 26, 1933.

Montreal Brokers Loans Are Larger

Montreal, Sept. 8—Loans on securities by member firms of the Montreal Stock Exchange as of Aug. 31, 1933, totaled $16,627,421, against $16,192,585 on July 31 and $13,774,017 on Sept. 1, 1932. August total is the highest since May, 1932, when total was $18,922,877 and compares with $54,901,145 on Oct. 2, 1931, when records were first made public.

Automotive Exports Best Since May, '32

Washington, Sept. 8—July automotive exports from the United States registered the highest figure of the current year and the largest total since May, 1932, according to figures made public today by P. R. Mattix of Automotive-Aeronautics Trade Division, Commercial Department.

The value of the American passenger cars, trucks and miscellaneous products shipped abroad in that period was $7,756,546, a gain of $536,414, or 7 per cent, over the June total, and an increase of $1,048,456, or 15 per cent, over the figure for July, 1932.

The improvement over the June figure was due entirely to a strengthened demand for passenger cars and trucks, amounting to $4,198,812, as against $3,636,428, a gain of $562,374, whereas miscellaneous products registered a loss of $18,950 ($3,357,734 as compared with $3,576,684). Shipments of passenger cars showed a gain of 763 in number and $281,762 in value, and trucks were up by 1095 in number and $300,582 in value. This marks the first instance since 1928 when the automotive exports for the month of July have registered an increase over the total for the preceding month.

Compared with July, 1932, the exports of passenger cars were higher by 2067 or 84 percent in number of units, and $1,066,841 or 66 percent in value, while trucks were improved by 1,680 units, or 90 percent in number and $632,174 or 70 per cent in value.

For the third successive month the Union of South Africa, Belgium, and Argentina were the chief purchasers of American passenger cars, each taking a greater number of units than was required in June, while the situation of shipments to the Union of South Africa was slightly reduced.

Other leading markets for July having a larger dollars and cents total included Brazil, Netherlands, Philippine Islands, British India, Australia, Japan, Denmark, Mexico, Colombia, and China.

BUYING AHEAD IS FAVORED

The prudent business man will continue to protect his raw material needs for some distance ahead, and to scan with care all orders calling for deferred deliveries of products likely to advance with the general level of prices, says the Standard Statistics Company in a current survey, which continues in part.

"Until more definite evidence materializes as to manufacturing costs, labor policies and prospects, profits further price irregularity in most raw materials is not improbable. Monetary and industrial prospects for the latter months of the year, however, justify expectations of a later resumption of the rising trend. Consumers are counseled to maintain supplies sufficient for several months' requirements.

"Constructive influences are likely to dominate the commodity markets later this autumn, with the federal administration expected to push with vigor to assure success of its price advancing policy."

Advance for "Gas" Prices Is Expected

Although executives of leading companies marketing gasoline in New York and New England declared that prices in this territory would not be raised today an increase can be the near future is considered almost a certainty in view of further strengthening of American Gulf gasoline cargo prices, the basis for the North Atlantic states' structure.

LIQUOR SALES BIG PROBLEM OF REPEAL

By GEORGE R. HOLMES

Copyright 1933, International News Service

Washington, Sept. 8 (INS)—Constitutional prohibition almost certainly will be a thing of the past three months from today—and a month before Congress convenes.

Sufficient states will vote up to and including Nov. 7 to insure repeal, and the conventions which follow the plebiscites will all be concluded within 20 days thereafter.

"After repeal—what?"

That pressing answer to this question is that a vast amount of confusion will obtain until various local laws work out their formulae for dealing with liquor traffic.

The 48 states will become to all intents and purposes 48 laboratories in which to test the various schemes and plans of control.

The federal government will watch with interest and aloofness the states' numerous experiments. Its own functions will be limited to prevention of interstate shipment of liquor into dry territory.

STATES NEED REVENUE

It used to be predicted that when prohibition was repealed few states would go wet again. This was largely predicated on the fact that 33 of the 48 states were dry before the adoption of the 18th Amendment. But that prediction is no longer fashionable.

The need of additional state revenue is expected to be a strongly determining factor in many states.

A survey throughout the country reveals there are 19 so-called wet states that are without state-wide prohibition laws, except in a few cases where there are laws providing for local option elections.

In some cases, liquor control commissions already have been established to deal with the problem after repeal; in some not.

There are 15 states where it is only necessary to remove statutory laws to permit the sale of liquor.

SALOONS MAY APPEAR

In the other 14 states, it will be necessary to operate on state constitutions before liquor can be legalized.

The prospect is for a queer hodge-podge of liquor regulations in the various states after repeal. Probably the old saloons will come back in a few states, despite platform declarations of both parties against the return of those ancient institutions.

Other states will experiment with the Canadian system, or the Swedish system, or any of the dozen of other systems. It will be strictly up to local sentiment, with the federal government an interested spectator except for protection of dry territory, and collecting the billions of revenue expected to start rolling into the treasury.

MEETING CHANGED

The Governor's council will meet a week from next Friday instead of on Wednesday, the usual day of its weekly meetings. The reason is that the governor and council go to Stockton on that day and it will save the out-of-town members from making two trips to Boston.

TRIO BEING WATCHED

An unconfirmed report that has gained wide circulation among the Boston politicians is that Daniel H. Coakley, of the Governor's Council, Congressman John McCormack and former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald are on the verge of issuing a statement in support of the candidacy of Frederick W. Mansfield.

ELY ON OUTSIDE

Gov. Ely has not been approached to use his good offices in getting democratic candidates for the mayor of Boston to withdraw in favor of the strongest man. The Governor made this clear when he was asked directly if his services had been elicited.

A Seat for Every Child

Our School Problem

Close to 225,000 children and teachers began the new year of education in the public and private schools of Boston.

They are the equivalent in numbers of almost ten army divisions at war-time strength. You can thus make some estimate of the great task of housing them and of supplying them with text books and school materials, not to mention the care and preparation showered upon them by their proud and dutiful parents.

The constructive work which these children can do for their city, their state and their country in the future years will be more important than any 10 army divisions ever assembled for the destructive pursuits of war.

When you send an army into war you at least expect it to be amply equipped, from daily rations to the metal helmet which the modern soldier wears upon his head.

When you send your child into the peace-time army of your country YOU MUST ALSO EXPECT HIM TO BE ADEQUATELY EQUIPPED if he is to be properly trained to captain and command your country throughout the fateful destinies and competitions of the future.

Every child is entitled by right to at least a comfortable seat in a safe and sanitary schoolhouse. Let him get into his head the impression that his safety is jeopardized or his health threatened in some ramshackle old structure with wooden stairways and flimsy fire escapes and he will turn out to be about as ineffective as the soldier who is sent against his enemy without a pistol in his hand.

The city of Boston, in common with most other municipalities, halted schoolhouse construction during the World War, when every effort of the country was commandeered to win military victory. They have never caught up with the schoolhouse construction then abandoned. Moreover, the school systems have been made the victim of the false "economy" policies foisted upon them the past three years by payroll politicians, more interested in keeping their henchmen in fat jobs than in providing proper education for the voiceless children.

The result of all this is that many children resumed their education this week in Boston and many other cities and towns in antiquated firetraps and amid other unwholesome conditions that distract their attention from the primary purpose of education and deprive them of the finest opportunity for intellectual and patriotic development.

President Roosevelt, in his recovery program, is putting into operation the greatest schedule of public works which this country has ever known. The wonder is that some of our municipal authorities have not sought the funds which are available from the national government to resume the modern schoolhouse construction unwisely abandoned some 16 years ago. Certainly there could be no project more self-liquidating than to educate our children, under safe and adequate conditions, to command and direct our country in the next generation.

What the schools need are less politics for politicians and more consideration for the rights and safety of the children.

Wasteful Counties

They Cost Much, Do Little

The people of the United States MADE last year, it is estimated, about forty-five billion dollars.

That was the total income of everybody in the country over the twelve-month period.

The people SPENT FOR GOVERNMENT last year, it is estimated, about fifteen billion dollars.

That was the total cost of Federal, State, county and local governments throughout the country over the twelve-month period.

In other words, out of every three dollars that the nation made one went to the support of its various "public services.

One dollar out of every three is a good deal to pay for any service, public or otherwise.

The Federal Government in recent years has done a notable job of economizing in its routine departments.

The governments of some States have reduced their expenses correspondingly.

But in every State the old, costly and practically useless county governments remain—eating up the taxpayer's money and performing little or nothing for him in return.

In the State a similar situation prevails.

As President Roosevelt told his neighbors of Dutchess County, N. Y., the other day:

"We haven't done much to reorganize our local government—what you and I know to be an outworn system built up in the days of the oxcart and unchanged in the days of the automobile.

"Nothing WILL be done about it unless you make your representatives on the town boards, on the county boards and in the State Legislature do something about it.

"And if they won't do it, SUBSTITUTE OTHER REPRESENTATIVES FOR THEM."

How to Make Money

Spend Money, and Spend It NOW

You may be a patriot, or you may not, but, whatever you are, you want to make money.

The surest way of making money now is to SPEND money now.

Prices have been going up for several months.

They will continue to go up.

Your September dollar will buy more than your October dollar.

To get full value out of it turn it into goods this month—and the sooner the better.

That is not extravagance—it is economy.

Of course, by spending your dollar now you will help others beside yourself.

You will help to make jobs.

You will help to put people on payrolls instead of leaving them to charity.

You will help to reduce the need for city and state and national relief, thus easing up on tax burdens.

You will help to speed up the wheels of industry, thus helping everybody.

But, regardless of that, the person you will help most is YOU, and unless you are different from most of the human race you must think first of yourself and your dependents.

For that reason buy in September. It's not only patriotic, it's prudent, and prudence is the best kind of patriotism in these days.

Arthur William Brown, a Hamilton, Ont., boy, who made good in the city. Who remembers when neck was a noun? Kelcy Allen is always brimming with impulsive kindness. That magician named Dante, with a Mephistophelean beard. Fun glancing in a window and trying to remember six articles.

One word description of Sproulle Braden—cordy. No objection from dogs anyway about reforestation plans. Sime Silverman is still Broadway's best beloved guy. Whatever became of the vaudevillian Charles T. Aldrich? Nobody can look so calm as Burns Mantle. Or so flustered as Bernard Sobel.

Those fellows who scuffle feet and fumble ties before asking alms. Not used to it. Dorothy Thompson and Sinclair Lewis hurrying toward Grand Central. Harold Ross looks all flattened out without that pompadour. And how well a red tie goes with Don Marquis' white hair.

Of all heroines of athletics Gertrude Ederle seems most neglected. One of my favorite people—Bruce Barton. All clean breezing along the avenue. Whitney Warren's Ehlert Hubbard tie. I never fail to stop and pivot slowly when Katharine Cornell passes. Just a Katharine Cornell man at heart.

The lightning switch in popularity of New York restaurants is a phenomenon. Rector's. Bustanoby's. Shanley's and others went out like a light. One day they may be enjoying full patronage, and next, customers only drop in for mail. A place 10 blocks away will be enjoying a similar rush of trade. Nobody knows exactly why. And popularity never hits the same place twice.

Count John Perdicaris, whose father when captured by bandits occasioned President Theodore Roosevelt's historic ultimatum: "Perdicaris alive or Raisuli dead," is one of New York's most accomplished and tasty spenders. Eschewing brash and pretentious soirees of the Broadway tradition, he gives elegantly chic entertainments in Mayfair and for years made it a practice to spend all he made in the day's market winnings before going to bed. His favorite libation is a highball of mint leaves and champagne with an entire ripe peach at the bottom. Also Kin- Edward's.

City editors are mutually agreed to uproot the clip joints, which the police never discover although they are mushrooming in every mid-town block. Recently Stanley Walker heard of a Harvard crew captain who had been dressed down for several hundreds in a cellar dive. He quit his desk, rounded up some raiders and went with them to an infamous nest on West 43d st. What the coppers did not do to the beetle-browed owners in a strictly unofficial way before booking them at police headquarters is nobody's biz!

New York has more collectors of ship models per capita than any other city in the world. Stockholm is second. The urge usually flowers among those of sedentary lives who are chained to desks. The finest collection of racing ship models is owned by the New York Yacht Club.

Just Folks

Case Closed

In a passion of anger he fired a shot
And the bullet flew to its mark.
He saw on her brow a crimson spot,
Then the room went ghastly dark.

No sound from her lovely lips he heard.
No light in her eyes he saw.
The clock still ticked and a curtain stirred,
Then the door flew wide for the law.

"Dead!" said an officer. "Dead as a stone!"
Steel handcuffs closed with a snap.
"O. K.!" said his partner, "now get to the phone
And tell 'em we've got the chap!"

"Quick work that!" said the chief that night
When he'd heard what had taken place.
Tomorrow will close the case!"

By the officers soon was the crime forgot,
But today, in a cell's gray gloom,
Sits the man, still hearing a pistol shot
Bark out in that living room.

Listen, World!

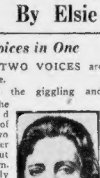
By Elsie Robinson

Two Voices in One

ALWAYS TWO VOICES are speaking in me.

Beneath all the giggling and chattering, the squealing and shrieking of life, those two voices murmur on, and on. Out of the bedlam, they are the only really important sounds. Constantly night and day, they ask and answer each other, something like this—

"And now, reading, you will be amazed and cry, "But how did she know? These aren't her voices; they're mine! These are the questions and answers which have gone on in me, ever since I can remember!"



Elsie Robinson

FIRST VOICE:—What's life all about?

SECOND VOICE:—I don't know.

FIRST VOICE:—But is life worth living, if we don't know what it's all about?

SECOND VOICE:—Why not? The fact that I can't understand it is no proof that a thing isn't worth while. My mind is a mighty limited affair; there are so few things which I can understand. But life's a great show. Life's worth while, even if I haven't the answers.

FIRST VOICE:—Yes, that sounds fine. It's grand philosophy. But you know perfectly well that it isn't enough. You've got to get more than philosophy out of life to make it worth while. You can't just watch it as a show. You must have a more personal interest in it; a warmer comfort. You've got to feel that you, yourself, have a goal in it, and some sort of a God who understands and cares.

SECOND VOICE:—I can always find a goal if I'll look for one. We're not held back by lack of goals, but by our own ignorance, laziness and cowardice. But even if our goals prove washouts, as they're often bound to do in these hard times—even if all my personal plans fail—I can still feel proud and excited about life.

FIRST VOICE:—How?

SECOND VOICE:—By realizing that I'm part of a tremendous plan which is going on, in spite of depressions. By reading what wise and brave men have done in the past and are still doing. By realizing that it's up to me to carry on their example of courage and fineness.

FIRST VOICE:—Y-s; that sounds wonderful. And you can kid yourself along a lot, telling yourself things like that. But you're bound to have times of complete bitterness and darkness. What then?

SECOND VOICE.—Those times come anyway. You have them whether you're a success or a failure. Judas, for all his thirty pieces of silver, had a blacker Gethsemene than Jesus.

FIRST VOICE:—But all this talk about God. If there really were a God He'd save you times like that. You'd always feel safe, no matter what happened. But with all your smart arguments, you can't prove there is a God.

SECOND VOICE:—No, I can't prove there is a God. But neither can I prove there isn't. So I'm choosing to take a chance. I'm choosing to act as if there were Someone who understands and cares—as if there were a Great Plan behind all this confusion—as if I were an important part of that plan. And I've plenty of evidence to back me in that stand, if I want to look for it. Beauty, and courage, and love, in spite of our human selfishness—they must mean something. I choose to thing they mean God.

FIRST VOICE:—Sure. But suppose you find you're all wrong?

SECOND VOICE:—I won't find it until I'm dead—and then it won't matter. Anyway, I stand to win. If there's nothing more after this, all the more reason for making life as gallant an adventure as possible. If there is no God, all the more reason for me acting like one. I can't understand or decide any of the really important matters, but this much I can do. I can decide to live my days like a man, or a mouse. I prefer to live them like a man, strutting my stuff as if I had all eternity to do it in. Then, whatever happens, I'll have had the best of it. And, if there's more—I will all be velvet!

FIRST VOICE:—But——

* * *

Two voices, constantly murmuring, constantly asking and answering each other, questions like this "How did she know?" you cry. "Those voices are asking and answering in me, too!"

"True Picture" of Hawaii Would Bring Action

By James T. Williams, Jr.

According to a dispatch from Honolulu, the governor of Hawaii has sent an urgent telegram to the Secretary of the Interior appealing to him to visit the territory as soon as possible for the purpose of obtaining "a true picture" of conditions there.

What Governor Judd really means by this message is that he and his subordinates in the territorial government wish Secretary Ickes to see conditions in Hawaii through their own political spectacles instead of seeing them in the light of the facts set forth in official records.

It was in the light of these facts that President Roosevelt asked Congress for authority to select for governor of the Territory of Hawaii the best qualified American he could find, regardless of his local residence or political affiliations.

The House acceded to this request by a decisive vote, but the legislation giving the President this authority is still pending before the Senate. In fact, it is the unfinished business of the Senate and will come up for action when Congress reconvenes next January.

This explains the S. O. S. call from Honolulu. Secretary Ickes is doubtless too well acquainted with the record of Governor Judd and his administration to be willing to set aside the facts of official record and accept in their place the high opinion which Governor Judd and his fellow politicians entertain about themselves.

ACQUIRED IN 1901

The United States acquired Hawaii in 1901 for military reasons. It was acquired in order that it might be developed primarily as "a defense outpost" or spearhead, lying 2100 miles to the westward of the United States mainland in the Pacific ocean.

In the event of war in the Pacific, Hawaii would constitute a most vital naval operating base. Without the support of that base it would be both difficult and dangerous for the United States to operate to the westward.

Although the island of Oahu, because of its armament, is a fortress island of great national importance, the other islands of the Hawaiian group are also important because they, too, will have to be denied to any enemy attempting an attack on Oahu.

For this reason general conditions in all these islands are, as the President and the cabinet well know, of vital concern to the government and people of the United States.

Under the Hoover administration an agent of the department of justice, in response to a demand from the Senate, investigated conditions in Hawaii. Among the findings of this report regarding conditions existing under Governor Judd's administration are the following:

"Ample evidence of extreme laxity in the administration of law enforcement agencies.

"A condition of inefficiency in the administration of justice which, in effect, constituted an invitation to the commission of crime in which has largely destroyed the morale of the law enforcement agencies.

"A feeling of unsafety among a substantial portion of the citizens.

OBEYING LESSON

In Hawaii today there are 133,000 Japanese, 25,000 Chinese, 6000 Koreans, 52,000 Filipinos, and only 35,000 that are racially either Americans or northern Europeans.

Were these islands populated as are the states of the union today, the national interest there would not require the special safeguards that are absolutely necessary in view of the small number of American residents and the very large number of immigrants from Asia.

President Roosevelt is obeying the lessons of experience and of history in appealing to Congress to give him authority to appoint as governor of Hawaii the best equipped American he can find for that position. Only under the administration of such a governor, one entirely independent of the Honolulu oligarchy, can American authority in Hawaii be made commensurate with American responsibility.

Golden Gate to Be Spanned—Bridge to Have Longest Clear Span in the World

By Edwin C. Hill

Shades of Ortega, Sir Francis Drake, Richard Dana and Bret Harte! The Golden Gate is about to be spanned. A bridge built by man is to be thrown across the mouth of the landlocked bay. The most magnificent harbor in the world will be the site of the world's most wonderful bridge, a great, single-span suspension, standing as another monument to the progress and enterprise of that phoenix-like dream city, San Francisco.

San Francisco! The very name is melody. The trumpets of adventure and the lutes of romance play within its syllables. It calls forth visions of scenic beauty, of a thrilling past and of even greater days to come. The ocean comes rolling up to the city's streets, its parks and its home. The clean, salty spray of the sea dashes upon its cliffs. The tides of the Pacific wash its docks where giant liners from faraway Asia or the South Seas are loading cargo for the next departure.

One feels the hang of the sea in San Francisco. Its moisture is cool upon the cheeks. Its salt is keen upon the lips. One breathes it, smell it, taste it, see it and hear it, and your cheeks glow as its tonic freshness quickens the blood stream.

The news that the Golden Gate Bridge, so long dreamed of, is actually under construction, is arresting news, for the spanning of the Golden Gate is not only a tremendous engineering fest but a long step forward toward the completion of a wondrous highway to extend straight northward from South America to Alaska, a royal road, indeed; as romantic as the road to Samarkand.

The assembled navies of the world could anchor at ease within San Francisco Bay. The purity of its blue waters, their loveliness, is not excelled by the roadsteads of Naples or of Sorrento. The grandeur of its scenery rivals the best the world has to offer an artist's eye. And the new bridge, they tell us, will contribute to, rather than detract from all this majesty and beauty. It will not blot out Tamalpais, the majestic, nor will it rob by one single ray the rising sun going in through the great gateway or the setting sun taking its leave. Rather, indeed, it will add another chapter to the story of one of the world's most fascinating cities.

The Golden Gate Bridge will have the longest clear single span in the world. It will have a length of 4200 feet, four-fifths of a mile; three times the length of the Brooklyn Bridge in New York, and 700 feet longer than the greatest span ever previously built, the George Washington Memorial Bridge over the Hudson in New York. The bridge will have a total length, with side spans, of 6450 feet, one and one-fifth miles, as against 4660 feet for the George Washington Bridge. Its towers will be 121 feet wide at the bottom and will stand 740 feet above mean high water, the highest and largest bridge towers in the world.

At its center the great, graceful span will lift 200 feet above the surface of the bay, affording two approach roads, all embraced within the project, the total length will be seven miles. One hundred thousands tons of steel will go into its construction, enough to load a freight train twenty miles long. It will require about four years to build.

It is unique in that its architectural treatment was considered of primary importance. Beauty was not sacrificed to rigid economy or to arbitrary standards of design. Its anchorages, its pylons, its sweeping cables, its network—the whole picture—will be one of grace and grateful charm, and at night, lighted its entire length, the cables outlined in light and the towers flooded, it will offer one of the most brilliant electrical displays in the world.

A new highway from the bridge will open up a wonderland of forest, mountain, river and lake—the Redwood Empire. Nine counties, rich in scenic marvels, with giant redwood trees, oldest of all living things; rugged scenery, geysers spouting, live steam, mineral springs as fine as Europe can offer, rich, colorful vineyards and flowers, flowers everywhere. Glorious that life will be when from the top of the bridge on a bright and sunny morning, with a brisk wind blowing and white caps playing atop the waves.

But even with the new wonder that man is building, the Golden Gate Bridge, the Golden Gate itself is as changeless as the mountains that lift beyond it. It is the same bay of breathless beauty that it was when the first of the white men sailed his little ship through the straits from the Pacific to gaze upon the sight of the future San Francisco.

"Serene, indifferent to fate,
She sits beside the Western gate."

WELL, we've got to drive into town this morning in our old Ford, and here's hoping that General Johnson doesn't catch us at it.
